Marigold planting aids cleanup

David Reis and wife, Mable, are shown planting the Romulus city flower, the marigold, in the planter in front of Bilmar's Market as part of last Saturday's city cleanup campaign. The flowers, donated by Block's Farm Market, will be used to beautify the city at other locations, including the Romulus Senior Drop-in Center, city hall, library, fire stations and other public sites. The refuse barrel, next to the planter was donated by Detroit Diesel Allison. The wide-ranging cleanup program, sponsored by the Romulus Beautification Committee, also included a litter pickup drive from city hall to Kennedy Park by 100 elementary school children, free house paint, and city refuse bags for sale. Cleanup prepares city

Michigan Week set to open

With the city freshly cleaned as a result of the recent beautification campaign, Romulus residents can now look forward to the third annual seven-day Michigan Week celebration beginning Saturday, May 19, and running through Friday, May 25.

Each day of the week is designed to attract participation from as many city residents as possible, with a wide variety of activities planned. Following are some of the highlights of this special week:

Saturday, activities are dedicated to the city's youth and will be centered around the civic center plaza, highlighted by the pentathlon contest and marathon races. The day climaxes with a teen concert by the popular local band "Ambush" from 8 until 11 p.m.

Sunday, May 20, is reserved for remembering the city's heritage, and the Romulus Historical Society has combined with the city this year to designate the Wesleyan Methodist Church at Five Points, as a local historical site. A commemorative service begins at the church at 11 a.m. and includes a community picnic at Kennedy Park at noon.

On Monday, May 21, Mayor William M. Oakley and other elected officials will journey to Ludington, Mich. and Romulus will play host to that city's mayor and party.

A full day of presentations and tours are planned, concluding with the mayor's exchange banquet, to be held this year at the Hilton Inn in Romulus. The guest speaker for the affair will be Jamil Aktar, special assistant to Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

Tickets are $8.25 per person, plus tax and gratuities, and must be purchased by 4 p.m. Friday, May 25, at the mayor's office. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Tuesday, May 22, is World Trade Day in Romulus and again the Wayne County Road Commission is offering its popular free tours of the Metropolitan Airport, leaving city hall at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The Romulus Chamber of Commerce is hosting Livelihood Day, Wednesday, May 23, this year with a community luncheon at the Hilton Inn. The guest speaker is David L. Littmann, a vice president with Manufacturer's Bank, who will speak on the state of the economy, a topic of interest to area businessmen. Tickets are $7.50 per person and can be purchased at the chamber office.

On Thursday, May 24, the Romulus schools will be opening their doors for a full inspection and tour by parents. Michigan Week projects will be displayed in addition to special events staged throughout the week. (See schedule in this week's supplement.)

Friday, May 25, "Hospitality Day," concludes the week's activities with the formal dedication of the new Senior Drop-in Center, located next to the Recreation Department on Bibbins Street.

Senate majority leader William Faust will join Mayor William Oakley and city officials in opening the building to public tours, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Michigan Week in Romulus; a unique, once-a-year celebration of a vibrant city and its citizens. Don't miss it!

U. S. Jew tells Red terror

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Victor Herman is a man with a mission.

The 65-year-old Detroit-born author of "Out of the Ice" last week told a group of Van Buren Township senior citizens just what that mission is:

"My life was spared by some higher power, I believe, so that I could come back and tell my story," Herman said.

Herman's story is incredible. It is about a young athletic boy who with his family joined a Ford Motor Company organized trip to the Soviet Union to help the Russians build an auto plant in Gorky. The year is 1931 and the world is relatively at peace with itself.

Herman becomes a world record holder as a parachutist and a hero for his feats as a pilot.

The Ford workers take up residency in Gorky, a small town just outside of Moscow. Most of the Americans do without much of the necessities of life such as sugar, butter and bread. But the Hermans stay.

Then the Soviet purges of the thirties begin, and Victor is eventually caught in the web. He is picked up by the KGB, the Soviet's secret police organization, interrogated and tortured.

"The KGB used every inhuman means to force me to confess to things I knew nothing about and when I refused they used all kinds of torture."

Eventually Herman was exiled to Siberia where some 20 million political prisoners perish because of the torture and inhuman living conditions in the working camps.

War clouds gathered in Europe and Russia and Nazi Germany declared war in 1941. The world would be involved in the struggle.

"But, until the end of the war, we didn't even know that there was a war going on," Herman said. If the people of Leningrad and Stalingrad had to turn to cannibalism to survive, what did the Russians feed their political prisoners?

"If you read my book," replied Herman, "you know."

Herman wrote that he managed to survive by trapping rats and using them as his source — and only source — of food.

New A & P gets boost

A proposed new A & P supermarket grocery destined for the corner of Inkster and Van Born roads got a financial shot in the arm last week from Romulus City Council.

Council authorized Patrick Hogan, community development director, to file for a $100,000 grant that would aid in relocation of a storm drain on the property and assist in buying land for the project.

Temple Management Co. of Southfield, developer for the construction project, told council the $3 million building program now hinges on their getting the grant and securing additional funds from other sources.

The company's contention is that the project is not feasible financially as it now stands.

Before the grocery store can be built, an existing junk yard, Auto Park Retail Sales Outlet, must be relocated to another site.

As now planned, the Southfield firm will attempt to have its project financed by the city's Economic Development Corporation. Under this program, the EDC will float tax-free revenue bonds to build the supermarket and then lease it to the developer.

City to seek $85,000 for high-rise costs

A May 15 (yesterday) deadline prompted Romulus City Council last week to okay asking for an $85,000 innovative grant to pay for costs related to the building of the new senior citizens high-rise structure.

Council gave unanimous approval to a request for the grant made by Patrick Hogan, community development director, which was forwarded to that body by Mayor William M. Oakley.

Proposed for construction on or near the land now occupied by the old Romulus Elementary School, the senior citizens high-rise has stirred up considerable controversy from a few local residents who questioned its location and what they felt to be unanswered questions.

In his recommendation May 4 to the mayor, Hogan cited recent approval of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) for construction of a 125-unit high-rise. (Size of the building also had been a bone of contention with its detractors in past months.)

Hogan explained in his written request that he was moved to make the grant request from recent discussions with MSHDA officials and with Leo Sklar, developer for the high-rise and the city's designated senior citizens building agent.

He said the city might be obligated "to bear some costs in relation to the development (exterior boundary lighting, sanitary sewer adjustments, sidewalk improvements, etc.)."

He also stated, "It is not known at this time exactly what improvements will be necessary and who will be obligated to bear the burden of cost."

With this in mind, he advised mayor and council to beat the May 15 deadline and to apply for a grant administered through the Wayne County community development block grant program.

His recommendation concluded: "When the final site plans, etc., are submitted and actual costs to all concerned are determined, and when it is determined how much money we are able to obtain from the grant, the city would then be in a position to make better decisions as to how and where the money is spent."

In other action, the council unanimously approved another request from Hogan to apply for a grant from the Wayne County Area Agency on Aging to cover equipment purchase for the new senior citizens drop-in center.

Although exact purchase price of all items has not been determined, an approximate total cost would be $15,000, Hogan said in his memorandum to the mayor and council.

Of the total, the grant would pay for 90 percent and the city would pay the remaining 10 percent, he explained.

Included in the list of items are: tables, chairs, storage cabinets, kitchen equipment and utensils, stereo, television set, pool table, pottery wheel, woodworking equipment, shuffle board equipment, picnic benches, lawn umbrella, lawn games and a piano.

Public hearing slated on bump shop move

A public hearing will be held June 5, 1979 at Romulus City Hall on the request of a Riverview resident seeking to relocate his truck collision operation to Romulus for a tax break from the city.

Edward J. Miller informed the city he would like to move his business to the southeast corner of Harrison and Ecorse roads. He asked that his property be designated as an industrial development district so he could be granted a tax reduction of up to 50 percent for the next 12 years.

Under Michigan Public Act 198, new businesses in a community can be granted such a reduction in property taxes as an incentive to build should the community's governing body so decide.

Council went along with Clerk Leonard J. Folmar's recommendation for the June 5 public hearing set for 7 p.m. The clerk's recommendation followed Miller's application for the industrial development district.

Miller, who now operates his business in Riverview, performs body repair and painting of large truck bodies in two separate buildings. Should he move to Romulus, he plans to combine the entire operation under one roof.

Miller's accountant, Dennis J. Bow, informed Folmar that an average of 10 employees have been on the company's payroll. Should a new building be constructed in Romulus, he said, this number could be expected to increase at the rate of seven employees per year.

Bow said Miller's new building would cost approximately $170,000. He added that if Miller was turned down on the property tax reduction, he would be forced to build in another area.

In its discussion on Miller's request, council said it will study two presentations previously made by Mayor William M. Oakley on what kind and size of business should be considered by the city for such property tax breaks under the industrial development district format.

Following resubmission by the mayor of his proposals, council will review them and determine suitable guidelines for tax break applicants, Folmar said.

Lions pass out free seedlings

Romulus Lions Club Vice President Robert Pressler (left) and Secretary Archie Vaughn pass out free Red and Austrian pine seedlings last Saturday during the spring cleanup campaign's opening day. Two thousand of the trees were offered to residents who stopped by city hall. The Lions will continue the program this Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m. at city hall, while the supply lasts.

Other promotions included free car litter bags, a spring garden lecture, and free marigold seeds distributed throughout the city. Girl and boy scouts cleaned designated areas of the city in addition to the 800 bags of litter picked up on routes from city hall to Kennedy Park. (Photo by Jay Young.)

With no federal backing

Nutrition program, meat inspection face 'lean' future

Two important state services may fall by the wayside due to a lack of federal matching funds, according to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District).

The Romulus Democrat said that the nutrition program for senior citizens and the state's meat inspection program both are affected by federal cutbacks.

Mahalak said that funds supplied to the state under the Federal Older Americans Act to finance the nutrition program which includes hot meals and "meals on wheels" have been cut back by some $93,000 because the state's senior citizen population has not grown as fast as in other parts of the country.

"If these funds are not received, social service and nutrition service money for senior citizens will have to be cut by about 25 percent," Mahalak said. "This would, among other things, eliminate about 7,000 hot meals per day for older state residents throughout the state, beginning Oct. 1."

"This comes at a time when the needs of our senior citizens continue to rise as their numbers increase."

Adding to the problem is the fact that Michigan has increased its rate of spending for senior citizens by spending carryover funds from previous years and in response to a court order stemming from a national lawsuit, the lawmaker explained.

A resolution adopted by the State House of Representatives asks Congress to restore the cutback in funds and points out the importance of the health and well-being of Michigan senior citizens, Mahalak said.

"This important part of our population should be guaranteed every possible means of maintaining good health," he continued. "Good nutrition is a vital means of reaching that goal."

"We have a responsibility, therefore, to ensure that the nutritional needs of the increasing

'This comes at a time when the needs of our senior citizens continue to rise...'

number of senior citizens is met. Without the program, there are many older citizens, who are trying to get by with small, inflation-riddled incomes, who could not eat properly and not eat the right foods."

Mahalak said the state's meat inspection program also is suffering from a lack of funding. Money for the program comes from both the state and federal governments.

Federal meat inspection law is much less strict than state law, and a tougher state inspection law was enacted a few years ago when it came out that the former law allowed such fillers as animal snouts, ears and lips to be used in lunch meat, hot dogs and sausages.

Under the federal matching fund program, the State of Michigan has, for several years, performed the inspection of meat plants in the state. The result has been a higher quality of meat for Michigan residents, Mahalak said.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has informed the state that federal funds for the inspection program will fall short by about $220,000 this year.

"Without needed federal money, the state meat inspection may come to an end," Mahalak said. "This would force the federal government to take over meat inspection in the state, at an additional cost of some $2.5 million. It also would mean, because of the lower federal meat standards, that Michigan citizens would be buying lower quality meats."

It is estimated that about 200 custom meat cutting plants in the state would be free from inspection and another 200 plants could be forced to close, eliminating jobs as well as competition, he added.

A resolution, adopted by both the Michigan House and Senate, urges Congress to appropriate the needed funds to maintain Michigan's meat inspection program, Mahalak said.

The original guild of musicians was probably that of the Brotherhood of St. Nicholas, organized in Vienna in 1228. Later, town bands were formed in Germany and Austria, consisting of fifes, flutes, shalmey, bombard, zinkers or cornetti (six-holed horns, similar in shape to a cow's horn, and played with a special mouthpiece), bagpipes, violas, and drums. The development of the wind band was influenced by the Middle Ages. Then, the trumpets and kettledrums were reserved exclusively for royalty, and forbidden to ordinary minstrels.

Cyclists receive booklet

A 9-percent jump in motorcycle fatalities in Michigan during 1978 has prompted Automobile Club of Michigan to mail a 32-page booklet, "Guide To Motorcycling", to 12,000 of its members insuring cycles through the organization.

"The purpose of this manual is to help reduce motorcycle accidents by providing information necessary to operate a motorcycle safely," said Auto Club President Richard R. Dann.

In Michigan, 175 persons were killed and 7,264 injured in motorcycle mishaps in 1978. A cyclist's chance of being killed in traffic was four to seven times greater than a motorist's last year.

In 1975, Auto Club released "Portrait of a Motorcyclist," a study based on Michigan's motorcycle fatalities.

The report cited youth, alcohol, lack of training and the apparent inability of motorists to see two-wheelers as major reasons for the growing safety problem.

It also showed that motorists were the cause of 40 percent of the fatal mishaps. Three out of four of those accidents were caused by motorists who made left turns in front of oncoming cycles or failed to yield the right of way.

"Guide To Motorcycling" stresses being seen and looking for trouble while riding in traffic. Some of the safety tips include:

— Keep the headlight on at all times. One study shows that during the day motorcycles become up to 1 1/2 times more noticeable to oncoming drivers when the headlight is on.

— Wear bright colored clothing and reflective helmets. Yellow, orange and red are the most noticeable colors.

— Use the horn in a potentially dangerous situation. In case you can't be seen, be heard.

— Try to ride where you can see the rearview mirror of the car ahead and don't ride in another driver's "blind spot."

— Look ahead to check the road surface for slippery spots, bad bumps, broken pavement, loose gravel, wet leaves or objects lying in the road.

— Check rearview mirrors every few seconds, especially when slowing down, changing lanes, turning or stopping suddenly.

— Keep at least two seconds distance between the vehicle ahead and move from one side of the lane to another to increase lateral distance.

— Don't share lanes with a car or drive between rows of stopped vehicles.

— Reduce speeds on slippery, uneven, sloping, grooved or grated surfaces.

also hired Victor to train and manage young boxers. Ironically, Dynamo is also the affiliate of the KGB where most of the secret police get their physical exercise. One of the conditions, apparently, of Herman's freedom was that he must not marry. He violated that rule and was again ordered to report to a prison camp at Yenisey, near the arctic circle. Herman was ordered to a work camp and forced to leave his wife and first-born child, a daughter, Svetlana. Once he reported to the camp, he further learned that he would not be permitted to live on the premises, that he must go out into the wilderness to live. In the middle of the Siberian winter, Herman made an igloo and prepared himself for the worst. "How I survived I do not know, but I feel there is a greater power that watched over me," Herman said. Herman was due for another unexpected turn of events — one day he looked up and saw his wife and child standing before the snow house. "How they found me I don't know," said Herman, in near tears. "It was a miracle." Eventually, through the help of a cousin and a sister who lives in Detroit, the Hermans are granted permission to leave Russia. "The story is there in the book, but I plan to write two others and the movie about my experience is in the planning stage," Herman told his audience. "My mission isn't complete until I have told the story in full." "Would you want to go back to visit Russia?" asked one of the people in the audience. "Why would anyone want to revisit hell!"

Twenty-five years later, he is acclaimed as an expert photographer, has won dozens of local, state and national awards for his craft, is a member of the National Press Photographers Association and was one of the founders of the Michigan Press Photographers Association. VB man to stand trial in 5 deaths

Billy Hardesty of Van Buren Township, accused of killing his parents and three other persons and wounding two others last October, will be arraigned May 24 and a date set for his trial. A hearing last Wednesday in the 14th District Court in Ypsilanti concluded with Judge Robert Fink ruling that sufficient evidence existed to try the accused killer on five murder counts and two attempted murder counts. The 21-year-old murder suspect is being held without bond in the Washtenaw County Jail.

Last Oct. 18 and 19, police say Hardesty went on a shooting rampage that left dead his parents, Ron and Jan Hardesty; Timothy Schofield, 22, of Belleville; Troy Lee Curry, 25, of Canton Township; and his former brother-in-law, Donald E. Wood, 38, of Canton Township. Testifying Wednesday against Hardesty were the two wounded men, Tommy L. Brown, 29, of Tecumseh, and Bobby J. Baker, 23, of Westland, who are half-brothers. Both men testified Hardesty shot them at the Stiles-Wood Corp. in Ypsilanti Township, were police say he also killed Wood. However, Baker said he could not identify Hardesty as he did not know him. Brown, who testified from a wheelchair, said he was shot seven times, while Baker said his assailant pumped 14 shots into him. He still walks with crutches. As police reconstructed the shooting spree, Hardesty shot and killed Schofield and Curry in a parking lot at Abigail's Dirty Shame Saloon in Ypsilanti prior to going to the tool and die shop where he killed Wood and wounded Brown and Baker.

Police traced Hardesty to his parents' home early the next day on Martz Road in Van Buren Township. After a gun battle that lasted about an hour, Hardesty surrendered after being hit by gunfire. A search of the Hardesty home uncovered his mother shot to death in a bedroom and the body of his father found stuffed in a deep freeze on the back porch. Hardesty was present at last week's hearing. He is being represented by Don Ferris and David Mendes of the Washtenaw County Public Defender's Office.

New Boston Girl Scouts visit Lansing

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak was host at the State Capitol recently to a group of 36 Girl Scouts from New Boston, led by Yvonne Campeau. The young women toured the Capitol and had a group picture taken with Rep. Mahalak. At the time the picture was being taken, Gov. William G. Milliken happened by and, when requested by Mahalak and the Girl Scouts, he posed with them. Mahalak added that the visit was particularly timely since the Capitol Centennial, marking the 100th anniversary of the dedication and formal opening of the building, is being celebrated this year.

In brief

City church honored

It's now official. Romulus Wesleyan Methodist Church, 37300 Goddard Rd., is now a local historical site following action last week by the city council. Unanimous council approval was given to a request from Mayor William M. Oakley and the Romulus Historical Society for the designation. Cited by the society was the 124 years of service given to the Romulus community by the church and its role as the center of spiritual, social and political activities during the community's early years. The church was built on a farm owned by the Pullen family, one of the early settlers of the Romulus area who took an active part in the formation of community government and in the settlement becoming a township in 1835. A special program at 11 a.m. at the church will be held to celebrate Heritage Day May 20, during the local observance of Michigan Week.

Clerks Week observed

The week of May 13-19, 1979 is being promoted as Municipal Clerk's Week throughout the nation, according to Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar. From the time when our country was founded and clerks began recording data for their specific areas with quill pens, these officials have been an important part of our American heritage, said Folmar. "Leaders of our national, state and local governments are being urged to introduce legislation calling for the designation of May 13-19, 1979, as Municipal Clerk's Week," he said. The action is being encouraged by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks, Folmar said.

Folmar to attend meet

Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar will take part in a conference July 22, 24 in Madison, Wis., for elections administration officials from the 10-state mid-west region. A total of 10 workshops will be conducted by state and local elections administrators for local officials representing Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin. The meetings are being co-sponsored by the Wisconsin State Elections Board and the Federal Election Commission's National Cleringhouse on Elections Administration. The regional conference is one of five such meetings to be conducted this year and in early 1980.

Explorer Scouts, Uniroyal to take on 'tire inflation'

Tire inflation ... it's critically important in auto maintenance as fiscal inflation is in the economy. On Saturday area motorists can avail themselves of a tire inflation and car care package at pre-inflation prices. For $2 motorists receive a hand car wash, an air pressure check by a tire professional, and a packet containing a free tire gauge and a pamphlet on tire maintenance. Dubbed "Operation Tire Inflation," the car care event is sponsored by the Exploring Division of the Boy Scouts of America, Detroit Area Council. Hosting the Explorer's program are three Uniroyal Tire Stores located in Inkster, Livonia and Taylor. All donations will be used by the Explorers for summer activities programs.

"Operation Tire Inflation" opens at 10 a.m. and runs to 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Uniroyal stores at the corner of Inkster and Cherry Hill roads in Inkster, 19268 Middlebelt Road, just south of Seven Mile, Livonia, and 22391 Ecorse Road, a half mile east of Telegraph, Taylor. Held in conjunction with Car Care Month, "Operation Tire Inflation" gives car owners an opportunity to spruce up the exterior appearance of their vehicle and get an important tire safety check just prior to the vacation driving season. The trend toward self-service gasoline stations and automobiles that require less frequent maintenance has resulted in motorists paying less attention to tire inflation. Tire surveys reveal that more than a quarter of all cars checked had at least one tire seriously underinflated. Underinflation is the most common cause of excessive wear, a problem which can be a serious safety hazard as well as an additional owner expense. Underinflated tires can result in reduced fuel efficiency and excessive wear. Proper inflation can save up to five gallons of gasoline for every 100 gallons the vehicle consumes. The loss translates into added dollars at the fuel pump. Motorists who participate in "Operation Tire Inflation" will have their tires checked by a Uniroyal professional who will adjust air pressure as necessary. The Explorers will conduct the car wash and distribute the free tire gauges, courtesy of Uniroyal.

Wildflower II is Sunday

"Wildflower II" will be the title of a family nature program to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. The walk will feature an entirely new set of woodland blossoms, including trilliums, cinquefoil, baneberry, dogwood and others. Park naturalist Bob Wittersheim will relate plant folklore, as well as discuss eatable and poisonous aspects of these wildflowers. Vehicle entry permits to the park are required and cost $7 annual regular, $2 senior citizen and $2 daily. A 'lucky dog'

Freddie Levin is one lucky dog, and the pride and joy of the Pride family of Wayne. Freddie, the former pet of U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, has joined the Wayne family, after the Levins issued an appeal for a good home for the pooch. And good it is, with youngsters Matt (left), 6, and Nathan (right), 9, to keep him active. Also a new fan of Freddie is Mrs. Nancy Pride, who at the boys' urging, wrote, seeking "custody" of the "lucky dog". — ANP photo.

Freddie Levin: A 'lucky dog' finds new home

By KAY DeBORD

Frederick is a lucky dog — literally.

He's found a home with a family who really wanted him. In fact, they asked for the custody of the sandy-haired mixed terrier when they heard that his owner was looking for a new home for him.

Frederick (or Freddie, as he is known to those close to him) belonged to the family of recently-elected Senator Carl Levin, and there was no place for him in the new senatorial quarters in Washington, D.C., so via the media, a home was sought for Freddie.

Among those responding to the plea for a home for Freddie, was Nancy Pride of Wayne, who gave in to the urging of sons Nathan Allen, 9, and Mathew Reuben, 6½, and wrote to TV Channel 4, and sent a picture of the boys.

The Pride's felt their chances were slim for getting Freddie, even though they had a fenced yard and promised that he would be the center of attention on the part of the boys, who have few demanding outside activities other than attending Monroe School.

Much to their surprise, they were notified that Freddie, who had three previous trial homes, could be theirs.

Now, Freddie, a five-year-old, is very much a member of the family. Mrs. Pride has discovered her allergies don't include Freddie, and the head of the family, Gary Pride, who wasn't too enthusiastic about the deal, has relented and has become a dog-walker in good standing, and in a short, four-week period.

According to Mrs. Pride, the first thing Freddie did on arriving at the Pride home on Currier Street in Wayne, was to take possession of an old tennis ball and it remains his favorite toy.

"Cleanup" duty in the yard is the chore of the senior members of the family, but Nathan and Matthew are responsible for grooming and feeding Freddie, and for giving a lot of tender, loving care as well as providing exercise for their playmate.

In addition to a good home and care, the only stipulation made by the senator, according to Mrs. Pride, was for "visitation rights," when he is in the vicinity.

In the meantime, Freddie, named for a veterinary friend of Senator Levin, Frederick Schulak, is leading a happy life, is helping a couple boys learn responsibility for a pet and provides his own brand of affection for his adopted family.

Other dogs should be so lucky!

College Week: One-of-a-kind affects participants

"I guess I was brought up to think that most women were to stay at home forever and never think of anything else in their lives. Surprisingly, my husband and children think I am now becoming a nicer person because I have a lot more interests than just them."

This statement is representative of many made at a 4-day event at Michigan State University that has had a profound impact on the lives of thousands of Michigan residents for more than 50 years.

It's called College Week, and it annually attracts more than 1,000 participants from every county in the state, who come to college, many for the first time, to sample more than 50 classes.

They also come to experience dorm life firsthand, complete with a roommate and extracurricular activities like special workshops, tours and theater outings.

College Week, the only event of its kind in the nation, takes place this year June 18-21. Its sponsors are the Family Living Education Program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service and the MSU College of Human Ecology.

The 4½ hours of daily classes are taught by university professors, extension specialists, government leaders and representatives from business and industry.

Classes span a wide range of topics. This year's curriculum includes an examination of the displaced homemaker, a microwave cooking course, an analysis of television's impact on the American family and tips on fighting "food-inflation," just to name a few.

This year, College Week will again feature an outdoor chicken barbecue for all participants, with state legislators attending as guests of honor.

Wilma Miller, on-campus College Week coordinator, explains that, for many individuals, it is the first time they have had the chance to meet their governmental representatives.

"In an informal setting, everyone feels fairly relaxed, which enhances communication," she added.

Earlier that same day, the keynote address will be delivered by Eleanor McGovern, wife of the South Dakota senator, whose talk is titled, "For Children, For All," in honor of the International Year of the Child.

The deadline for College Week registration is June 1. Because classes are filled on a first-come, first-served basis, Miller urges prospective participants to register as early as possible to get their first choices of classes.

College Week brochures are available from county Extension home economists, or from Wilma Miller, 202 Wills House, MSU, East Lansing 48824.

The College Week package plan, including class fees, 10 meals and three nights lodging, costs $65. Those wishing to commute to classes pay $18, and a 1-day College Week experience, including lunch, is $10.

Hospital admitting policy to change

Elective admissions under the Wayne County hospitalization program for the medically indigent must be referred to Wayne County General Hospital, beginning June 1.

The policy change, dictated by a resolution adopted by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners last November, affects approximately 150 medically indigent persons monthly, according to R. B. Shelton, director of the Wayne County Department of Social Services. WCDSS administers the county hospitalization program for the Board of Commissioners.

Shelton said the Department of Social Services will arrange transportation to Wayne County General Hospital for individuals without other available means of transportation. He emphasized that this policy change does not affect emergency medical admissions.

"The change relates only to medically determined elective admissions," he said, "and should not interfere with emergency room admissions and procedures."

By Wayne-Westland schools

Equity in state funding of center sought

The Wayne-Westland Community Schools is looking for some equity it believes is lacking in the amount of money the state plans to spend to help build the vocational center in the district. The Wayne-Westland schools have been promised $12.50 per square foot as the state's share. But the Detroit Public Schools will be getting approximately $37.50 per square foot from the state for their vocational centers, according to School Supt. Timothy Dyer.

"This raises a severe question of equity," Dyer said in a recent letter to John Porter, superintendent of public instruction for the State of Michigan.

"Is it fair for the state to be funding an area center at $12.50 per square foot here in Wayne-Westland and at the very same time fund, some 20 miles away, another vocational center at a level of approximately $37.50 per square foot?" he asked.

"The need for vocational training for students who would be served by the Wayne-Westland Center are no different than those students who would be served in any one of the centers being constructed by the Detroit Public Schools."

Actually, Wayne-Westland has been haggling with the state about the $12.50 figure ever since the voc center was proposed. A state law that Dyer worked hard to get passed guarantees matching funds from the state to pay for 50 percent of such a vocational center, as long as it serves enough students to be considered an area center. In September 1976, the Wayne-Westland voters approved $2.5 million in bond issue money to pay for the district's share of the center, which was designated an area center.

But before the bids even went out, the state made estimates that the center should cost approximately $25 per square foot to build.

"We told them it couldn't be done (back in 1977), but we were arguing in the abstract, which is difficult to do. We didn't have the bids yet," Dyer explained.

"We agreed to disagree and wait until the bids came in."

They came in, at $56 per square foot, Dyer said.

Because the state wouldn't reconsider changing its $12.50 commitment, the plans for the center were pared down accordingly, cut by $1 million, Dyer said.

A computer instructional program was eliminated from the building. Plans for a diagnostic vocational laboratory were taken out. And "many mechanical alterations, several of which involved major energy saving potentials, had to be made" to trim cost.

In the meantime, Dyer continued, the state has agreed to fund half the true cash cost of similar vocational center in the Detroit Public Schools. And those bids came in at $75 per square foot. The Detroit Schools had been ordered by the court to build the vocational centers, and part of that order was the half funding by the state.

If they are going to get true half funding, then so should Wayne-Westland, reasoned Dyer.

He outlined this argument in a letter to Porter and in a discussion with him recently. Dyer said Porter was understanding of the problem and the Wayne-Westland superintendent hopes to get some adjustment.

Dyer has even come up with a way for the state to find the money.

The funds the state doles out for construction are actually federal dollars, funneled through the state education department. The state does not itself get into funding any construction projects, and apparently doesn't want to start.

But there are only so many federal dollars that the state allocates for construction. Other federal funds go for other special projects for-and school operations.

Dyer knows that the state doesn't want to set a precedent by beginning to fund construction. So he suggests that the state take more federal funds away from operation and put them into construction, to finance these vocational centers. Then it can re-direct its own state funds to replenish the federal funds it took from operations. Finally, the State Legislature could appropriate more money to go into the operational fund.

Although these accounting gyrations seem unnecessary and complicated to the lay person, and it would keep the federal and state bureaucracies happy. And it would get those needed funds to grant the Wayne-Westland vocational center that higher level of funding, Dyer hopes.

The district will keep moving on its construction plans and work on the voc center as it is planned, Dyer said. If the money does come through, the additions could be installed without problem any time in the next six months.

He emphasized that the taxpayer will not be asked to chip in more for the center, with or without additional state funding. The lower level of state funding will simply mean that some parts originally designed for the center will be left out.

The College Scene

Co-ed aids high schoolers

Romulus resident Sharon Johnson, a senior at Central Michigan University, recently assisted some 60 high school students from throughout the state who attended the 58th annual Michigan International Press Association Conference April 20.

The conference brought Michigan high school yearbook and newspaper staffs together to participate in workshops and lectures by educators and professionals in the field of journalism.

Also on the college scene: Steve Zimmerman, the son of Elfriede Zimmerman of Parkwood Drive, Romulus, was inducted into the Adrian College Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity during a ceremony held recently.

Zimmerman, an Adrian Freshman majoring in physical education, is a 1978 graduate of Romulus Senior High School and a member of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, Romulus.

Autism workshop planned

A 2-day workshop on Autism, featuring 14 presenters from six different states, will be held Monday and Tuesday at Eastern Michigan University's Hoyt Conference Center in Ypsilanti.

Registration is open to all interested persons. Parents of autistic children, professionals, paraprofessionals, students, and all other concerned individuals are invited to participate.

Participants will be provided with exposure to some of the current issues in the area of autism regarding differential diagnosis, service delivery systems, aspects of various treatment modalities, advocacy intervention techniques, and recent changes in Michigan's Mental Health Code.

Parents of autistic children can become more aware of the various state and community resources that are serving or can serve the autistic. Professionals and paraprofessionals from various human services agencies and other concerned individuals can expand their knowledge of autism and the needs of autistic citizens and their families.

For program and registration information, write the Michigan Society for Autistic Children, Suite 18, 2002 Hogback Road, Ann Arbor 48104, or call (313) 973-9004.

For mentally retarded

NRTC seeks potential foster parents

Hundreds of mentally retarded adults residing in state institutions could benefit from living in the community, if foster homes were available to them.

One institution, the Northville Residential Training Center, (NRTC), is seeking potential foster parents to give the opportunity for a family life in the community to their mentally retarded adult population.

"They need new challenges and opportunities to reach their full potential. These opportunities exist in the community," according to Diane Surma, social worker at NRTC.

Foster homes serve from one to three mentally retarded children or adults. Foster parents take retarded individuals into their homes and serve as para-professionals by providing care and training to their new family member. Foster parents receive instruction and training to learn these skills. Approximately $600 per month per client is paid to foster parents for providing these services.

"Although we have been successful in recruiting foster parents for children, we now need to find families who are willing to work with mentally retarded adults," said Denise Horvath, recruitment specialist at Northville Residential Training Center. "We cannot estimate how much each individual adult could grow, if given the chance to live in the community."

Many of these individuals need to develop socialization skills, leisure time activities and refine their self care skills. These types of challenges can bring many personal rewards to a foster family.

Individuals 18 years of age or older may qualify as foster parents. Foster care does not prevent individuals from continuing in their area of employment. Retarded clients under 26 years of age attend school programs daily; clients over 26 years of age attend a day program.

Foster parents have the opportunity to expand their skills and grow in new areas with the support of Northville Residential Training Center, which provides in-service and home training programs, parent and family counseling, and assistance in procurement of public education, adult activity and-or sheltered workshop programs and other available community resources.

If you are interested in becoming a foster parent, call the Northville Residential Training Center at 349-8000, ext. 236 or 238.

Country 'welcomes home' Vietnam vet

A delayed "welcome home" is scheduled for Michigan's 361,000 Vietnam Era veterans during the week of May 28 to June 3. President Carter has declared the week as "The National Salute to Vietnam Era Veterans."

Frank Kilcullen, director of the VA regional office in Detroit, said the one-time observance will be America's way of saying "thank you and welcome home."

Of these, 20,000 also had fought in Korea.

The state's regional office and five VA medical centers located in Allen Park, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Iron Mountain and Saginaw will hold special acknowledgment programs during the week.

State and city governments have been asked by the President to participate actively by having special programs to honor the Vietnam Era veteran.

All federal agencies and departments will place emphasis on the many benefits available to Vietnam Era veterans urging their use before they expire.

Veterans service organizations throughout the state are planning special events to honor the Vietnam veteran during the period.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP PUBLIC HEARING MINUTES

MAY 8, 1979

Industrial Development District. Republic Die & Tool. Van Buren Township 46425 Tyler Road, Belleville, Michigan 48111.

Supervisor Cullin opened the meeting at 7:07 P.M.

Clerk Craven read a letter from Republic Die & Tool stating they were incorporated in 1947, employ 280 people and now wish to enter the production stamping business requiring them to move their parking lot and make various modifications of their present facility. They are requesting an Industrial Development District to aid them in this expansion project.

Attorney Ivan Misner representing property owners on the Northwest corner of Sheldon and Van Born requested further information as to the exact plans of the company. The property owners are not necessarily opposed at this time they are attending to get more specific information.

Supervisor Cullin explained that the granting of the Industrial Development District in no way precludes the procedure of presenting plans to the Planning Commission and conducting Public Hearings on those plans. This hearing is only to determine if the Township Board will assign an Industrial Development District for this plan.

Clint Baer of Republic Die & Tool indicated the reduction of taxes was paramount to the formulation of the expansion plan due to the large capital outlay it will require. The value of this expansion will be between 1 1/2-2 million dollars.

Receiving no other comments for or against the District a Motion was made by Hall, support Maton to set the Second Public Hearing for this Industrial Development District on Tuesday, June 12, 1979 at 7:00 P.M. CARRIED.

The meeting adjourned at 7:27 P.M.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

The following resolution was offered by Treasurer York, supported by Trustee Hall.

WHEREAS these problems will encompass a much greater area if the large planes are to use an east-west runway at Willow Run Airport, and

WHEREAS much of this additional area is planned for residential development, and

WHEREAS this extension of the southern east-west runway will create a clear zone that crosses Beck Rd., which may mandate a change in the alignment and-or grade elevation of the roadway, and

WHEREAS the Van Buren Planning Commission and Professional Planning Consultants believe the extension of said runway as proposed by Trans Plan would have a very detrimental effect on Van Buren Township's planned orderly growth, and

WHEREAS the Van Buren Planning Commission and the Professional Planning Consultants recommend that this plan not be implemented.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the township of Van Buren is opposed to any and all extensions of the runways at Willow Run Airport now and in the future and the use of Grant Monies for this purpose.

Know your laws

(This is one in a series of public service articles, explaining in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By ATT. GEN.
FRANK KELLEY

Michigan property owners know that each year they are expected to pay taxes on land they own. The money received from payment of property taxes is vital to the continued growth and prosperity of our state. Because this revenue is so important to Michigan, our legislature has placed tough penalties on property tax laws in order to insure prompt payment.

The taxes annually assessed against real property in this state constitute a lien upon the property until payment is made. This lien provides that penalties be imposed upon those who neglect their taxes. The failure to make prompt payment of the taxes assessed may result in the imposition of collection fees and interest on delinquent taxes. If the delinquency continues the final result may be sale of the property by the State Treasurer.

Arbitrator orders new talks between Westland, WPOA

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

A Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) arbitrator has ordered the City of Westland and leaders of the police officers' union back to the bargaining table to make one last effort to hammer out a labor agreement by June 11.

Negotiators for both sides have been bargaining for 13 months on economic issues only. The economic portion of the contract expired on June 30, 1978. Police officers have been without a raise since June 30, 1977, said spokesmen for the Westland Police Officers Association (WPOA).

The WPOA had filed for arbitration after talks reached an impasse, and mediation produced no results.

Since public safety employees are not allowed to strike, binding arbitration is guaranteed by law. The union requested it when talks on wages stalled in January.

However, the entire contract, including the language and wages, expires on June 30 of this year, less than two months away.

Arbitrator Thomas LoCicero met with the two sides to begin arbitrating the wage reopener, but seeing that the whole contract would expire soon, he told the sides to go back to the table and this time negotiate not only the wage reopener, but the full upcoming contract as well. The hope apparently is that once the whole contract is opened up for negotiation, agreement can be reached not only on the overdue portions, but on a one-, two- or three-year new contract, beginning July 1.

LoCicero ordered the two sides to have their first meeting by May 16, and a session has been scheduled for that day, said Personnel Director Ed Gunther.

The arbitrator put a June 11 deadline on the talks, however, according to WPOA President Steve Frazer. If no agreement can be reached, the arbitrator will go ahead and hear the cases of the two sides.

In binding arbitration, the decision of the arbitrator is final and compulsory.

The time deadlines imposed by LoCicero will "intensify efforts" to reach agreement, said City Attorney Dale Jurcisin, who is negotiating for the city.

The two sides are supposed to be exchanging new proposals today for the total package.

This is the first time that the WPOA has filed for arbitration in labor talks with the city. The economic "hang-up" in the contract has been the issue of Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA), negotiators said. The present contract has no such adjustment.

In the meantime, the Westland City Council is working on the city budget that will be adopted early in June. In the budget proposed by Mayor Thomas Taylor, 10 patrol officers' positions will be eliminated.

At a study session last week on the police department budget, Officer Lennis Hayes, treasurer of the WPOA, read a statement objecting to the number of layoffs in the department and questioning the city's priorities. He said that the police department will be taking a disproportionately large number of the layoffs, compared to some other city departments. He argued that the layoffs will eliminate a special traffic program aimed at containing alcohol abuse (and federally funded) and will severely curtail the narcotics and intelligence program run by the department.

There are 68 officers in the WPOA, and 10 staff reductions in patrol officers is planned. Because of one recent discharge in the department, that would result in the layoff of nine patrol officers.

College holds spring fair

The Western Region of Wayne County Community College will be holding a spring fair May 24, the first in a series of celebration in honor of the International Year of the Child.

The fair will be from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Milton Center, 1771 Henry Ruff Road, Inkster.

There will be an hourly series of informative workshops for adults, with educational and entertainment activities for children planned to coincide.

Adult workshops will include child care, nutrition, health education, teen-age pregnancy, sex education, juvenile offenders, juvenile justice, the affect of television on youngsters, religion and cults.

For young people attending there will be art, poetry and workshops, puppet and mime shows, cartoons and other events.

At 6 p.m. there will be an open forum, featuring area state legislators, including Sen. William Faust, Reps. Thomas Brown, William Keith, Robert Law, Edward Mahalak, Gary Owen, Alfred Sheridan and Richard Young.

Cyclist rams truckers

A 26-year-old Detroit man was killed Monday afternoon in Inkster when the motorcycle he was operating rammed into and slid under a truck on Michigan Avenue near Inkster Road.

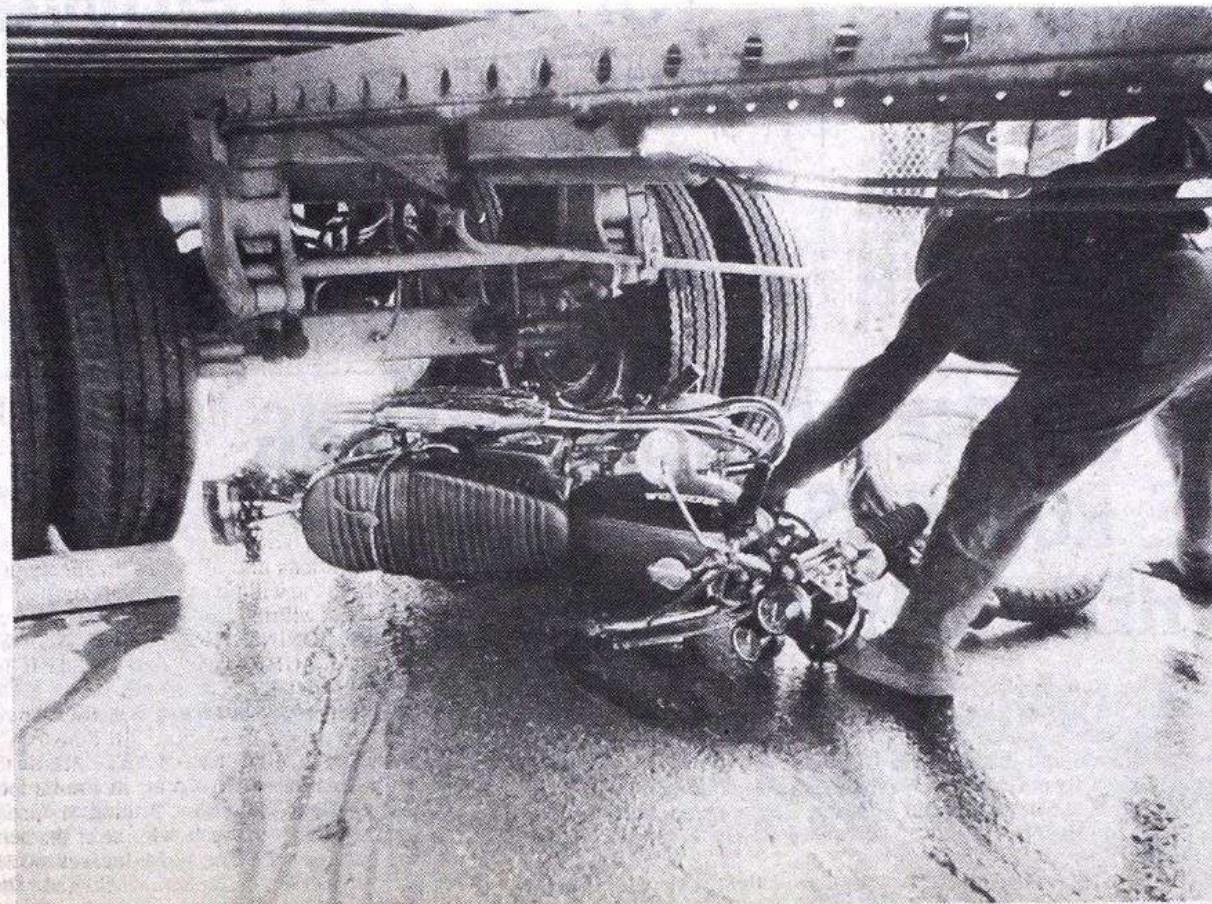

The cyclist, Gary David Zbikowski, was rushed to Wayne County General Hospital where he died shortly after 1 p.m. while in surgery.

Inkster police said that Zbikowski had made a right hand turn off of Inkster Road and was traveling westbound on Michigan Avenue when the fatal accident occurred.

Robert P. Ziska, the driver of the truck, told police that he was making a right hand turn into Allen's Lumber Yard when the cyclist plowed into the back of his rig.

Inkster police said they presented the information to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. The prosecutor denied their request for a warrant charging the truck driver with negligent homicide, they said.

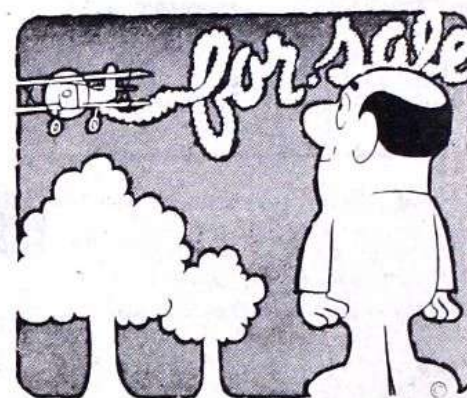

Zbikowski was the first person to lose his life on Inkster roads this year.

SPINAL CURVATURES & CHIROPRACTIC

(View of a Normal Spine)

When the spine becomes misaligned, it causes pressure to vital spinal nerves. This is when sickness begins. The Chiropractor relieves this pressure so that the normal energy flow will resume.

SPINAL CURVATURES

A spinal curvature generally begins in early childhood and steadily becomes worse. Chiropractors are able to correct such curvatures, providing they have not progressed too far; that is, if the patient is not too old and if the degree of curvature is not so marked that the bony segments of the spine have lost their normal shape and size.

MUSCULAR TENSION

Numerous ligaments and muscles are attached to the spine. These ligaments and muscles extend from the spine in opposite directions, with an equal number on either side. Normally these muscles have an equal pull, keeping the spine in the median line. However, when a set of ligaments and muscles exert a stronger pull than the ones on the other side of the spine, a curvature develops. Why do the muscles on one side contract and pull harder than those on the other?

REASON FOR TENSION

Every muscle is supported by nerve fibers which carry motor impulses from the brain to the muscle tissue. Normally these impulses are barely sufficient to maintain the tone of that muscle, which manifests itself as a slight contraction. If anything occurs to produce an excessive expression of these motor impulses, the muscle is excessively contracted. In the case of the muscles along the spine, this causes the vertebrae to be pulled.

FAR-REACHING EFFECTS

There are many far-reaching effects of spinal curvature which the patient does not realize. The curvature forces segments of the spine to assume an unnatural position; this may strain muscles or ligaments, crowd the internal organs or impair circulation.

Spinal curvature may irritate the spinal cord and nerve trunks also. These nerve trunks supply various organs of the body. Therefore, it may be said that any organ could be affected, and any bodily function impaired, because of spinal curvature.

HOW DOES CHIROPRACTIC HELP?

Electrical charge along a nerve membrane is called a nerve impulse. Nerve impulses are transmitted from the brain to the cells, tissue, muscles and organs of the body through the spinal cord.

If misalignment of the spinal vertebrae occurs due to a spinal curvature, nerve impulses become distorted and cause the body to malfunction.

The chiropractor, by careful examination of his patient, detects the problem and makes a skillful adjustment of the spine. Once the troublesome vertebrae are restored to their proper position, nerve interference is eliminated. The body then uses its own powerful restorative force to return its affected parts to full health.

Visit your chiropractor regularly to avert serious health problems. Children, in particular, should be checked by a chiropractor twice a year to detect misalignment or subluxation of the spine. Spinal curvatures are corrected more easily in childhood.

Everyone's goodmouthing it

Jogging: America's No. 1 physical fitness choice

Everybody's goodmouthing it these days. In fact, running's a superb way to get exercise. Experts for the President's Council on Physical Fitness ranked running No. 1, ahead of bicycling, swimming and tennis. Running's great for your heart, weight, control, muscle strength and endurance, flexibility, digestion, balance and sleep. What more could you ask? Now that the weather has moderated, it's a great time for you to start.

Check with your physician before you start jogging. And, if you're over 40 or have a family history of heart disease, take a stress test. (You run on a treadmill while an electrocardiograph machine checks your heartbeat.)

Be kind to your feet. They'll bear the brunt of tons of your weight over the miles you run. Buy good running shoes with firm padding in the soles that will take the beating caused by your feet hitting the pavement.

Now that you're just about ready, but before you start, do some exercises do two things for you. They prepare the muscles you'll use while running, and they strengthen the muscles that need extra work. Check one of the books on running now available, such as Dr. George Shehan's "Medical Advice For Runners," for exercise details.

Take precautions if you're going to run when it's very warm out. There are three dangers you must avoid while running in heat. Warm temperatures may cause loss of body salt, dehydration and a rise in body temperature to a dangerous level. To handle these potential problems, consider the following.

(1) It's best not to eat salt tablets before a strenuous run because they sometimes cause nausea. Instead, drink a well-salted liquid, like a salty soup or juice with salt added, or have a meal two hours or more before you run and put extra salt on it.

(2) To prevent dehydration, don't let yourself run too low on body fluids. Drink cool liquids like water or fruit juice before and during a long run. Try to get in at least 10 ounces every half hour.

Dress lightly in heat. Wear light-colored clothing because it reflects the sun's rays. If you can, run in early morning or late afternoon when the sun isn't so intense. If you must run in hot sun, wear a hat.

Don't spend a lot of time warming up in hot weather, and if the temperature-humidity index is 83 or higher, don't run at all.

If you plan to run outdoors at night, be very cautious. Wear brightly-colored clothing at all times of the year and put reflective strips across the back and front of your clothes, shoes and hat. Check out the roads you plan to use to make sure there are no hazards like potholes or pebbles. Be certain there is plenty of room on the road's shoulder, which should be flat. Always run on the left side, facing traffic and be ready to move off to the side of the road as necessary.

As you begin to run, run and walk for 15-30 minutes four times a week. Be sure to combine running and walking, and don't force yourself. Even though it takes a while to build up to a mile and more of running, your progress should be sure and safe.

For those interested in jogging, a special 6-week class of conditioning and running, designed for the beginning and experienced jogger, will be offered by Washtenaw Community College at 7 a.m.

As part of the class, taught by experienced runner, Fred Wolven, each person will develop a daily and weekly plan for conditioning and running. Sessions each morning will include discussion, exercise and running.

The only prerequisite is that participants have a physical examination, if they are not currently jogging or if they have not had such an exam within the past eight months.

The class will be offered in the Ypsilanti Center of the college, 210 W. Cross, the old Ypsilanti High School.

Advanced registration of the class is requested and can be done by calling the Ypsi center at 482-2230. A $15 fee is charged.

Jobs determine pay across nation

Where does one find the highest and lowest pay rates? That depends strongly upon the job, according to Dr. Steven Langer, managing consultant of Abbott, Langer & Associates, who analyzed and compared pay data for 90 jobs in 200 geographic areas in the United States and possessions.

According to the report, secretaries are paid 27 percent

Eastern Market readies for annual Flower Day

The 13th annual Flower Day at the Eastern Farmers Market is Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. More than 100 growers of flowering annuals and vegetable plants will display their products.

This annual exhibit is the only one of its kind in the United States. It offers home gardeners an excellent opportunity to see the different varieties available, seek advice from professionals, and buy the plants they desire.

Southeastern Michigan horticulturists will be on hand to answer questions on both flower and vegetable gardening.

The Eastern Market is located at 2934 Russell, just east of I-75 and south of I-94. Plenty of free parking is available.

The event is cosponsored by the City of Detroit Bureau of Markets, the Metropolitan Detroit Flower Growers Association and the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

10D. Motion by McAnally, supported by Raspberry, to adopt Resolution 79-170:

RESOLUTION 79-170

WHEREAS: Municipalities throughout the State of Michigan experience increasing difficulties in obtaining and maintaining adequate liability insurance coverage at reasonable premiums; and

WHEREAS: Governmental units are no longer protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity from tort litigation, resulting in liability coverage which has, with greater frequency, caused us to become targets for lawsuits; and

WHEREAS: There are a growing number of communities who have been unable to secure bids for renewal of policies or have had policies arbitrarily cancelled despite solid claims and low loss records and, thus, being forced into accepting whatever coverage was offered, regardless of exorbitant premiums, or having to face the potential of calamity inherent in being uninsured; and

WHEREAS: The insurance carriers have indiscriminately categorized government as high risk class, primarily due to their lack of information and data on loss prevention and exposure identification, which if available would more accurately assess risk and equitably correlate to premiums. The lack of statistics, inview of the new legal climate, has made the municipal insurance market appear hazardous leaving us no avenue of defense. Private sector agents can now freely dictate lesser line coverages, impose exclusions of vital coverages, and demand premiums that have become ever more difficult to bear; and

WHEREAS: There seems to be no relief from the uncertainty in the private market and because many of the cities, villages and townships affected are unable to provide the funds necessary to be individually self-insured.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That we support the Michigan Municipal League's efforts to establish a mutual liability insurance fund to relieve the impact of the insurance crisis on municipalities;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That we would deem it to be a highly desirable service and of great benefit to us all to have the Michigan Municipal League coordinate such a fund as an alternative to being left at the mercy of private sector agents; and

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That we urge the Michigan Municipal League to take action on this matter in our behalf.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Block, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

10E-J. NO ACTION

79-171

10G. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Canejo, Block, McAnally, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

79-172

Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, to schedule a study session for Tuesday, May 15, 1979 at 8:00 p.m. in the Romulus City Council Chambers, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan, agenda to be as follows:

Things that matter

Hypnotism and relaxation

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

The Rev. Donald Vittner, a counselor at the Parma Medical Center in Parma, Ohio, is one of a growing number of therapists who now use hypnotism in working with their clients.

What makes Vittner unusual is that he is a fundamentalist Christian. Many of his evangelical colleagues look upon hypnotism as demonic — a "tool of Satan."

Vittner, who formerly shared these theological misgivings about hypnotism, today feels that hypnotism is "one of the good things God has given us for our use." He says that he has seen its healing effects in his clients, in his family and in his own life.

This is the second part of a 2-part interview with Vittner.

Q: You say that relaxation and hypnosis are synonymous. Is relaxation the whole secret of hypnotism?

A: No. It must include meditation. But many people cannot meditate, since they are so unrelaxed. Before one can meditate, one must relax deeply to tune out the world and tune in to himself and the Lord.

I relax my clients and teach them to relax themselves and to visualize Jesus touching them — to see themselves as the person God wants them to be.

I ask them to meditate on such Bible verses as:

— "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4:13)

— "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee." (Isaiah 26:3)

— "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live. Yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." (Gal. 2:20)

— The 23rd Psalm.

When counselees do their homework assignments faithfully, they recover much faster than they would otherwise.

Q: What can hypnosis be used for?

A: Such books as "The Power of Positive Thinking," "The Power of Your Subconscious Mind" and "Think and Grow Rich" have demonstrated how self-hypnosis can be used to bring healing and even material success.

In his book, "Jesus Wants You Well," Lovett teaches us how to find healing by relaxing and visualizing Jesus touching and healing us. Ruth Carter Stapleton, in "The Gift of Inner Healing," states that she relaxes people individually or in groups to help them find inner healing.

Both Lovett and Stapleton deny they use hypnosis. However, a rose by any other name is still a rose. Lovett rationalizes that he is teaching one to relax only his body, whereas relaxing the mind is hypnosis, which he opposes.

This strikes me as a contradiction. The mind controls the body. The body cannot relax unless the mind is also relaxed. They must relax together.

Q: Do you know personally of any cases where hypnosis has brought a physical healing?

A: Three years ago my wife had a very painful arthritic knee and my teen-aged daughter had an extremely bad case of acne. After years of medical attention, these problems had remained unchanged.

I relaxed each of them and gave each a suggestion that her problem would be healed. My wife has not had any trouble with her knee since. And my daughter's acne has given her no further trouble.

For the last four years I have been relaxing (hypnotizing) myself during the day, at bedtime and when I awaken in the night. I visualize myself to be what God and I want me to be.

As a result, I am more relaxed, self-confident and successful.

It is unfortunate that most people seek counseling and hypnosis therapy only when they are on the verge of cracking up. It also is for people who want to grow and achieve their God-given potential.

Q: Will hypnosis be able to overcome the opposition of the "intellectual community?"

A: When the bathtub was first invented, it, too, was bitterly opposed by both Christians and medical societies. Hopefully, within another generation our present prejudices about hypnosis will look equally ridiculous.

Dr. Moore speaks at Bethany Church

Bethany Baptist Church this Sunday will host a vital and informative conference on scientific creation.

The conference will feature Dr. John Moore of Michigan State University.

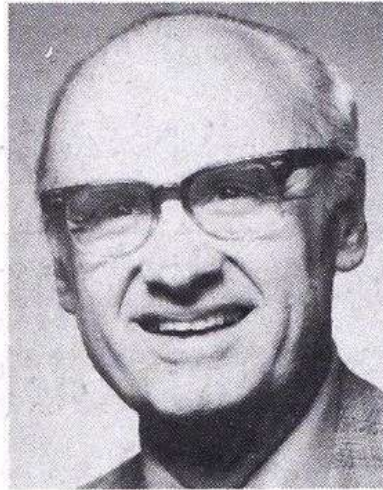

Dr. Moore will speak at 10 and 11 a.m., as well as 6 p.m., and will be presenting scientific evidence to support biblical creation as opposed to the evolutionary theory. At the conclusion of the 6 p.m. program, there will be a question-and-answer period on the material he will present throughout the day.

Dr. Moore is one of more than 600 scientists in the Creation Research Society, each of whom holds one or more post-graduate degrees in science from recognized universities. Most of these scientists were once evolutionists, but have become convinced "creationists" after studying the evidence presented in the quarterly journal available from its office (Creation Research Society in Ann Arbor).

Pastor John Losen and congregation have extended an invitation to the public to attend the church's second such conference.

Bethany Baptist Church is located on Drive, just east of the Belleville city limits.

DR. JOHN MOORE

Parent group will hear Dr. Pearsall

Dr. Paul F. Pearsall, chief of the Problems of Daily Living Clinic at Sinai Hospital, will deal with the topic of "What to do while you wait for the psychiatrist to come" when he speaks at the Monday meeting of the Parent Support Organization of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the First United Presbyterian Church, 600 N. Brady, Dearborn.

Dr. Pearsall, a certified consulting psychologist, has established a national reputation as speaker and authority in the field of diagnosis and treatment of sexual, marital and family dysfunction. He serves on the teaching staff at Wayne State University Medical School, Mercy College and Henry Ford Community College.

Parent Support (PS) is a county-wide group, organized through the Cooperative Extension Service, under the leadership of Family Living Agent Kathleen Bufton. It is an organization for continuing education, growth and support in implementing skills and techniques of effective parenting.

While membership is open to anyone who has an interest in better family or personal communication, members are encouraged to enroll in a regular 8-week effective parenting class.

Classes are taught by the Family Living Education staff, or volunteers for a nominal fee.

For further information on the program, or upcoming parenting classes, contact the extension office at 721-6565 or 563-2950.

MUCC offers wildlife class

Wildlife Discovery will come to the Detroit area next fall.

This is an unusual new program for teaching children about wildlife.

Sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), the project is designed to teach specific concepts about wildlife, their interrelationships with the environment and to help dispel misunderstandings about the realities of nature.

The program, which is designed for fourth grade pupils, was introduced into Michigan by MUCC in a pilot project in Ingham, Clinton and Eaton counties during the current school year. It was received so enthusiastically by teachers and pupils alike that MUCC decided to expand the program to the Detroit metropolitan area in the next school year.

Wildlife Discovery classes are taught by volunteer lay persons, known as "guides." They are trained by MUCC staff members.

Training sessions for guides who will be teaching in the Detroit area next fall will be offered during June and July at the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Anyone interested in participating as a guide should contact Bill Watt, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, P.O. Box 30235, Lansing 48909 no later than May 31.

Would creation of a Westland department of public safety, and appointment of a director of the department, violate the Westland City Charter?

Could the move be considered "usurpation" of the status of the police chief, fire chief and building director, which are all created specifically in the charter?

These legal questions probably will end up in the lap of City Attorney Charles Bokos, according to Council President Robert Wagner.

The council has been sifting through the mayor's proposed budget, and with it his proposal to create a department of public safety. Mayor Taylor's plan is to put the building, police and fire departments within one public safety department.

He intends to retain a police chief, a fire chief, and building "chief," but put the entire department's administration under one new director, who would be a civilian. Current police chief William Rechlin is Taylor's choice for the job.

Monday night, the City Council listened to Jerry Tobin, public safety director in Southfield, describe his job and how it fits in with the city administration.

In that city, the public safety department includes police, fire and civil defense. Tobin emphasized that the three chiefs are in charge of the day-to-day operations in their respective departments, and that he is strictly an administrator.

Tobin said the departments work together in "compatible functions," such as arson investigations, they have joint communications and dispatching network, and one civilian clerical pool. But police officers are not fire fighters or vice versa. There is no blending of jobs.

Mayor Taylor's proposal is based on similar thinking. He wants to combine areas of job function that are compatible. For instance, fire, police and building employees all do inspections of one sort or another and could work together.

Tobin said the set-up also leaves the administrative head to do long-term planning that he never had time to do when he was police chief and was responsible for day-to-day operations.

Wagner commented, however, that "under our charter, it states that the fire chief and police chief will be the administrative heads of their departments. We aren't sure if this is usurpation."

"This is something we have to get an attorney's opinion on," The city charter does specifically

'No (new) department may be created which invades the duties of the (existing) departments or the directors.'

create the departments of building, fire and police and says that "the administrative head of the department of building shall be the director of building... the administrative head of the police department shall be the police chief and the administrative head of the fire department shall be the fire chief."

The charter further states that the council has the power to create other departments, but "no such department may be created which invades or supplants the duties or functions of the departments hereby created, or the directors thereof." (Section 5.5b)

It probably is possible that the mayor could name the same person to be the chief of police and fire and director of building, but that has not been his intent as he has presented the public safety plan thus far. In addition, it would be legally difficult to remove any of these three department heads (although the fire chief position is vacant).

It is not mandatory that the council create by ordinance the department of public safety by June 4, their deadline for adopting the budget. However, the mayor has included that scheme in the budget, and in doing so eliminated one top housing administrator, an assistant fire chief and a police inspector (there are currently two of each) to line up the staff for the new public safety department. The shake-up eliminates two jobs and adds one, with a net savings of two top management salaries.

Jobs determine pay across nation

above the national average in Davenport, Iowa, and Detroit, but 29 percent below that average in Lawton, Okla. Poughkeepsie, N.Y., switchboard operators do 24 percent better than the average, whereas those in Jacksonville, N.C., are 30 percent below the national average. Key punch operators (Class A) do best in Beaumont, Tex., (46 percent above) and worst in Gadsden, Ala. (29 percent below).

The same sort of disparities hold true for technical jobs. For example, computer programmers (Business - Class A) do best in San Jose, Calif. (22 percent above the national average) and worst in Chattanooga, Tenn. (20 percent below). Electronic technicians are paid 25 percent above the average in Trenton, N.J., and 26 percent below in San Antonio, Tex.

Blue-collar workers certainly are not exempt from geographic pay differentials. Maintenance machinists are paid best in the San Francisco metropolitan area (22 percent above average) and worst in Asheville, N.C., and Puerto Rico (34 percent below). Stationary engineers make 24 percent above the national average in Ann Arbor, Mich. and 37 percent below in Colorado Springs, Colo. Chicago truck drivers are paid 29 percent higher than the national average and Forklift operators 23 percent above average in Ann Arbor, Mich. Both jobs are paid least in the McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg, Tex., area (44 percent and 47 percent below respectively).

Naturally, wages and salaries in Alaska are higher than elsewhere in the United States. For example, secretaries in Alaska are paid 48 percent more than the national average; switchboard operators 34 percent more; maintenance machinists 65 percent more; truck drivers 50 percent higher; and forklift operators 54 percent higher. However, the cost of living in Alaska is also significantly higher than any place in the continental United States.

Section 703.108 HOURS OF OPERATION.

703.108(1) No licensee shall operate or cause to be operated in the City a commercial pool room or any room where pool or billiard tables are kept, between the hours of 2:00 o'clock a.m. and 7:00 o'clock a.m.

703.108(2) No licensee shall harbor or permit any person, except regular employees who are performing the necessary work within the premises, to be or remain in any such licensed room or place any day of the week or time during which such licensed premises are prohibited from operating.

A violation by a licensee of this requirement shall be the basis for a suspension and revocation of his license.

Section 703.110 UNLAWFUL TO PLAY CERTAIN GAMES: OBSTRUCTION: DOORS UNLOCKED: POLICE CHARACTERS.

703.110(1) No dice shall be thrown and no cards, raffles or other games of chance shall be permitted if played for money or prizes nor shall any other form of gambling be permitted in any licensed pool room in the City, or in any room in which pool tables are maintained or any other place in which any business licensed under this ordinance is carried on. However, such prohibition shall not be construed to prevent the giving of cash or merchandise as prizes to pool or billiard player's leagues or any other competitive play.

703.110(2) All other State and City barrier free requirements must be complied with.

703.110(3) It shall be unlawful for the licensee to use or occupy any other room or space in any building for the purpose of carrying on the commercial pool business, except that room or space specified in the application for license.

Section 703.111 SUSPENSION AND REVOCATION.

703.111(1) The license herein authorized to be issued may be suspended for any of the following reasons:

(a) Falsification or misrepresentation of any statement contained or requested in an application.

(b) Concealing facts, or intentionally failing to reveal facts or to answer fully any questions in the application.

(c) For violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance or any other ordinance of the City or statute of the City or State of Michigan.

703.111(2) The aforementioned license may be suspended by the City Clerk upon completion of a hearing before said Clerk at which hearing the licensee shall be entitled to submit any verbal, documentary or other proofs that he may wish and to be apprised of the charges against him and to cross-examine all witnesses.

703.111(3) Any licensee whose license has been so suspended in accordance with the terms of this ordinance shall have a right to appeal the decision of the City Clerk to the City Council, by requesting within ten (10) days of such decision, an opportunity to show cause to the Romulus City Council why the decision of the City Clerk should be set aside.

703.111(4) At hearing before the City Council conducted in accordance with this ordinance, the Council shall make a determination whether the suspension was proper. Upon completion of said hearing the City Council shall affirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the Clerk.

703.111(5) After a suspension has been administered, the Clerk upon evidence of an additional violation at a duly scheduled and conducted hearing, shall be entitled to order the suspension or revocation of a license. In the event that a license issued under this ordinance is revoked, any person officially associated with the licensee, whether as partner, associate, officer, director, shareholder, employee or other shall cause any further license applicant to be ineligible for a period of five (5) years if he has any of the above relations with said applicant.

703.111(6) It shall be unlawful for any person, either as owner, or part owner, whose license issued under this ordinance has been suspended or revoked, to operate or work in a pool room during the period of suspension or revocation or when such person is ineligible to obtain a license.

Section 703.112 ENFORCEMENT.

Special Olympics: A Celebration of Life

A celebration of life happened in Westland Friday as nearly 1,500 athletes, and an equal number of volunteers, coaches and friends, came to participate in the annual Wayne County

Special Olympics. The county-wide event was held at John Glenn High School. Friday was track and field and swimming events day, and the Saturday before featured

The challenge

It's ability that counts

The Special Olympics emphasizes that it is the ability, not the disability of the individual that counts. It is the effort expended, win or lose, that makes the race worth running. Mike Baker of Wayne faced a tall challenge Friday, compounded by the fact that he was competing against others who were using two legs to make the high jump. Mike's determination was written all over his face, and in the gold medal he wore around his neck later, after clearing 4 feet, 9 inches in the high jump.—ANP photos by Tom Greenwood.

gymnastics and bowling.

The Special Olympics is sponsored by the Wayne County Civitans, hosted this year by the Wayne Civitan Club. There were celebrities and dignitaries on hand for the opening ceremonies, the Olympic Parade and lighting of the torch, but the real heroes of the day were the mentally retarded athletes from all over the county who gave their best effort. Among the competitors were 300 individuals from Wayne-Westland, wearing distinctive navy blue warm-up suits with white lettering indicating their school district and the symbol of the Special Olympics.

The day began with the Parade of Athletes, then the lighting of the Olympic torch by two Wayne-Westland youngsters, Angie Connor and Paul Urbaniak.

Individuals then competed in the swimming events in the school, and track and field contests such as foot races and relays, high jump, long jump, frisbee and softball throw.

Because the purpose of Special Olympics is to create a positive experience for the mentally retarded individual, all participants are winners, enjoying the feeling of accomplishment that comes with the training and competition. Those who don't get a medal, do go home with a ribbon and T-shirt for their participation. As usual at the Games, congratulations, hugs and warmth were in abundance, despite chilly temperatures.

The state-wide Special Olympics will be held at Mt. Pleasant from May 30 to June 2. Three-hundred athletes from Wayne County, a number of them from Wayne-Westland, will attend those Games.

Let the games begin!

WHAT EFFECT DOES PRE-PLANNING HAVE ON SURVIVORS?

Generally, there are strong benefits to your survivors! Consider the impact of pre-planning on your survivors: will they understand you want your own wishes carried out and not theirs? That you may wish to economize in your choice of service, casket, etc., instead of putting the choice in their hands when they are under great stress and shock?

Will they understand that you want a certain specific order of service? A particular portion of scripture read? Your favorite music? Your designation of minister? And, of course, that you insist on paying for it yourself, sparing them the emotional and financial burdens?

Many of those for whom we have pre-planned funerals have solved these difficult considerations. They have involved their families in the decision-making process. You, too, may wish to invite members of your immediate family to discuss pre-planning with you and with one of our professional funeral counselors.

Once having made your funeral arrangements, your sense of security and accomplishment may be comforting and valuable to you and your loved ones.

Time to honor our Viet Vets

By MAX CLELAND
Administrator of Veterans Affairs

When I served in Vietnam, and for a long time afterwards, I was convinced this was a "different" war. It had limited objectives, was fought in an unconventional manner, and was surrounded by controversy from the beginning. Since returning, I've talked to many veterans of different eras and have begun to think more about the similarities between Vietnam and other wars.

Veterans who were in World War I at Belleau Wood, in World War II landing craft at Normandy and on the frozen trail from Korea's Chosin Reservoir remember the same confusion, fatigue, loneliness, and fear we felt at Khe Sahn in Vietnam.

The unique thing about Vietnam was — and is — its aftermath. It was a hard war to come home from an even harder one to look back on.

In past wars, those who fought had the support of society both when they left and when they came home.

They didn't have to continually ponder why they did what they did. Society provided the answers.

For Vietnam, society provided no answers — only more questions. Too often, for veterans of Vietnam, feelings of frustration and bitterness over military service have been fueled by a sense of isolation from and rejection by the general public.

Society in general and government agencies in particular were not geared to handle the millions of young veterans pouring off the "freedom birds" as they returned home from Southeast Asia.

Our ability to treat their physical wounds improved, after a time, to reasonably acceptable levels. But other adjustment problems have not yet been adequately dealt with.

Now, some four years after the official end of the Vietnam War Era, the resilience of its veterans is apparent. The great majority of them have adjusted well. Sixty-five percent of them have trained under the GI Bill and many have taken advantage of the VA home loan guaranty program.

But some Vietnam era veterans continue to have problems. Alienation, lingering guilt and other emotional problems, compounded for those disabled by physical wounds, show up in many forms of social inadaptability.

These veterans need and deserve our help.

The VA has adjusted its priorities to provide for these special needs. Legislation for psychological readjustment counseling and for extension of GI Bill time-limits for educationally disadvantaged veterans have both been strongly recommended to Congress.

Outreach to all Vietnam era veterans about the GI Bill is underway nationwide. Educational and vocational counseling services, efforts to reach incarcerated veterans, twenty new alcohol treatment units, and other measures are in process to help these veterans.

But the government alone is not able to address one problem facing Vietnam era veterans — the lack of full respect and honor for their service and sacrifice to their country.

lack of full respect and honor for their service and sacrifice to their country.

Vietnam Veterans Week is the opportunity for all Americans to express their gratitude to these veterans. And it is a time for us to reflect on the similarities and the differences of America's most recent war.

It was different in the unique problems of the returning veterans. It was the same as other wars in that those who served did so honorably — often heroically — and they deserve our full understanding, support and thanks as a Nation.

Editorial opinions

It wasn't their idea!

America has been asked by the President and Congress to set aside the week of May 28 - June 3 to honor the nearly 9 million men and women who were in our armed forces while we fought in Vietnam.

This is an appropriate request, for both the desiring and hitherto largely unhonored individuals involved and the country.

The veterans deserve the recognition for a job well done. The rest of us deserve the chance to reconsider the indifference that has generally characterized our attitude toward a remarkable group of young people we sent to do a difficult job for us.

It is conventional to say that the week is long overdue. But perhaps it could not have been held earlier and had the support we expect it to receive now.

Certainly such a week would have been a cause for tension and division while we were in Vietnam and in the period shortly after we withdrew. There was no middle ground on which those who supported and those who opposed the war could have stood to salute those who were caught up in it.

We hope that is not true today. Vietnam Veterans Week is not a time to re-fight the war. It is not a time to judge foreign policy of years past or to wonder what would have happened if we had either not become involved or if we had pursued the conflict further.

Vietnam veterans were neither the perpetrators and miscreants of an unjust war nor undedicated and unheroic bumblerers who frittered away American honor on victoryless battlefields.

They were citizens who gave as much as Americans in past wars. They performed with all the skill, bravery and devotion to cause and country as those who have been feted and applauded for service in other conflicts.

Anybody here remember Vietnam?

Of course, you say. Da Nang. Saigon. The Mekong Delta. My Lai. And all those other strange names that kept coming up in the headlines.

For millions of Americans — perhaps most of us — the war in Vietnam was never much closer than those headlines and the nightly news clips on television.

It was a war halfway around the world, one that was never declared; a conflict that just seemed to grow behind our backs until, one awful day, there it was, full scale.

No one went to that war with banners flying and bands playing, and those who went anonymously came back the same way. The longer it lasted the more unpopular it became, and its unpopularity seemed to rub off on the very ones who were most intimately caught up in it.

Perhaps the most demoralizing part was what didn't happen. Nobody said "thanks." Nobody said, "We're proud of you. Even though the war was unpopular, we're proud of you for being willing to serve your country."

Well, that's changed.

This year America can make up for the lack of an official thanks. The week of May 28 — June 3 is — officially — "Vietnam Veterans Week."

We should all join the Congress and President Carter in observing it for what it is — a chance, at long last, to express a nation's appreciation to the nearly ten million men and women who served during the bitter years of the Vietnam Era.

We owe it to them. Let's pay the debt.

Conscription

It is indeed unfortunate that during the week set-aside to honor the veterans of Vietnam, congress has decided to add new fuel to the growing national debate over restoring the draft.

The latest proposal coming from congress would include women in any new law re-establishing the draft.

Amid growing concern that this country's volunteer army is not capable of adequately defending our nation's interests in the event of any new armed struggle, and dire warnings from the military that we are vulnerable to a limited scale land attack in Europe, congress is reacting with predictable reluctance.

We think that reluctance is well founded. Vietnam proved that the draft is only as good as the system which asks its young to march off to war.

And that system is suspect.

Making good on one of the few campaign promises he chose to keep, President Carter granted amnesty to draft evaders, resisters and deserters.

In so doing, the president has left an indelible message for this country's young and old alike.

The message was: Only the very foolish would accept induction into the military when the consequences for refusing posed no serious threat.

That is of course not to say that the only reason many young people agree to fight is out of fear of the alternatives.

But it is obvious that given a choice between induction into the military, and a pleasant life in temporary exile, most informed decisions would choose exile.

We think congress is making a mistake at this time in considering any new draft legislation.

The waste of Vietnam is still too fresh in our minds to allow for rational discussion of the possible need for a new conscription plan.

Not to mention the fact that those thousands of new draft evaders would severely damage our balance of payments with Canada.

Water powered cars near reality

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

We have all heard stories about the mysterious stranger who walked into a government office with a fluid that, when mixed with plain tap water, could be used to power a gasoline engine.

As the story goes, his fluid was tested by the government and found to do exactly what he claimed, but when the lab technicians went to inform the stranger of their findings, he had disappeared and has never been heard from since.

Or how about the story of the fellow who invented a carburetor that would extract 200 miles from a gallon of gasoline, but following his encounter with several oil company executives, he dropped from sight along with his claimed invention.

I suppose these stories are the result of collective wishful thinking by people who would like to believe that the "system" is somehow engaged in a gigantic cover-up of devices that would free all of us from the growing shackles imposed by the necessity for energy.

For most, the stories stir only a wistful look before reality forces us to conclude that the tales were probably just dreamed up by someone with an overactive imagination.

For others, these stories simply reinforce their conviction that government is involved in a plot to lock-up such secret devices lest the oil companies suffer huge financial losses.

Well, pay attention.

I will now provide you with another one of those stories. But this one, hopefully, will prove to be true, thereby rescuing all of us from the huge budget drain of today's energy costs.

This week on a nationally syndicated television talk-show, called 'Ruff House' (not available in the Detroit area), Howard Ruff, host of the program will interview two men who claim to have developed two separate processes. One for the conservation of energy mechanically, and the other, a process for 'Burning Water' in automobiles.

That's right! Burning water to power automobiles.

Howard Ruff, host of the Ruff House television show, is a well known economist who, in addition to hosting the show on television, publishes a twice monthly economic newsletter, is a frequent public speaker and is the author of several books. His latest book, 'How to Prosper During the Coming Bad Years' is now nearing the top of the Best-Seller list.

But Ruff's credibility is even further enhanced by the fact that most conventional economists, the same people who have gotten us into the economic mess our country now faces, think his ideas are either crazy or worse.

Well, Ruff may be crazy alright. But crazy like an oil rich Arabian shah.

For some time it has been known that hydrogen could provide sufficient energy to power an automobile. And since water contains the world's largest free source of that hydrogen, converting water to liquid hydride has remained a high priority. But until now, the cost of that conversion was higher than the cost of conventional fossil fuels.

But according to Dr. Gerald M. Schaflander, head of Solar-Hydrogen Development Company, his company's recent break-through in mass producing solar cells which lowers per-unit cost by 66 percent, will provide the necessary low cost energy for the conversion of water to liquid hydride.

Dr. Schaflander states that by using his newly developed solar-cells to convert water to liquid hydride, a replacement fuel for gasoline will soon be available at an estimated 28 cents per gallon. Schaflander insists that this is not pie-in-the-sky wishful thinking. His company, incidentally, has financial backing from actors Paul Newman, Jack Nicholson, among others, and is ready to go now with the franchising of retail outlets to dispense the liquid hydride.

But even though Schaflander's idea could ultimately prove to be the long-sought solution to the energy problem, the federal government has paid little attention to the doctor.

First, Schaflander's company asked to be allowed to competitively bid on a contract to modify all the government's vehicles to run on the liquid hydride to test the product's worth. The government refused.

Then, Schaflander offered to convert the government vehicles free of charge if Uncle Sam bought hydride from him for only 40 cents per gallon. Believe it or not, the federal government continued to ignore this potential for reducing government fuel costs by millions of dollars, and again refused.

For those who have long felt that government is busier creating problems than they are in solving them, this latest incident lends further support.

The two-hour modification required to convert an auto from gasoline to hydride represents only a small cost as compared to potential savings from a national program to exploit the hydride powered automobile.

But then again, had the government reacted any other way, the value of the development would have been seriously compromised.

Next Week: A mechanical system to conserve energy is lost by the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration.

I feel that Mr. Peets had better get on the stick and move a few dollars to the summer program, or forget about that $40.00.

Re-order priorities

Editor:

I am dismayed at our schools and homes. There was a time in America when schools, homes and churches worked together to form a strong nation and we were blessed as a nation.

Today such is not the case. One woman roots out prayer in schools.

Families no longer worship God on Sunday or daily. The home deteriorates. The nation flounders. We throw up our hands and say, "What's the use. What can we do?"

We can do plenty. We can turn to God who in turn can strengthen this nation once again.

Starting in the home where Mom and Dad worship God. People in turn are going to demand that school, city, state and nation return to God and godly principals. If we the people reject this option, then we will fall as a nation. Evil cannot continue without the wrath of God.

Return to God and He will bless America. If God be for us, who can be against us?

Did our founders die in vain that we might pervert our freedoms?

'Michigan Week' at the Capitol

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

Michigan's State Capitol, which is in its centennial year, is a storehouse of history, ornate fixtures and old-time elegance.

Inside the Capitol, the most impressive feature is the circular rotunda beneath the huge and richly decorated dome. In its center, on the first floor, is a showcase containing copies of Michigan's four constitutions (1835, 1850, 1908 and 1963). Around the sides are flags carried in the Civil War and World War I.

The rotunda floor is constructed of 976 blocks of thick glass. They were installed in 1892. The floor is similar to the one in the Nation's Capitol in Washington, D. C. Michigan is the only State Capitol to have a rotunda floor designed after the one in Washington.

It is designed to create an optical illusion: the higher a person goes up toward the dome, the more the center of the floor seems to sink. From the top of the dome, the floor looks like a complete upside-down dome.

The glass block floor forms the unusual ceiling of the ground floor rotunda, giving visitors the eerie feeling of watching people walk above them.

Centered in the ground floor rotunda is an information-security booth. Around the sides are display cases on Michigan history, divided into regions, prepared by the Michigan Historical Commission.

Elegant woodwork and marble floors are typical of the entire building. Most of the interior offices have been remodeled, the high ceilings have been utilized in the construction of "half floor" to provide extra office space. But the hallways, staircases and legislative chambers are still largely as they were 100 years ago.

While many state branches and departments were once represented in the Capitol, it is presently limited to legislative chambers, offices and committee rooms, the Governor's Office, on the second floor, and the Lieutenant Governor's Office, in the south wing. Other state functions have been relocated in newer state buildings and in some cases, in rented office space.

The chandeliers seen in the Capitol hallways are made of Michigan cooper, designed by Tiffany's of New York and installed in 1878. They feature the State Seal. Originally gas lighted, they were converted to electricity in 1905.

The House and Senate Chambers are at each end of the second floor. Each has a U-shaped visitors' gallery, reached from the third floor.

The largest of the two chambers, the House Chamber, includes Michigan walnut desks which were original furnishings, beautiful quartz crystal chandeliers imported from Czechoslovakia in 1915 and carpeting with alternating circles of the State Seal and an outline of Michigan. Above the Speaker's rostrum is a carved replica of the State Seal.

There is similar carpeting in the Senate Chamber, but with a red, rather than blue background. The room features a hand-carved rostrum, with flags of all the 50 states above it.

The old Supreme Court chamber, now used as a committee room, is considered one of the loveliest rooms in the Capitol. The room has never been redecorated, and the handcarved desks are original furnishings. In addition to its handsome woodwork, the old court chamber includes white chandeliers and a ceiling of ornamental painted panels.

The Governor's private office is a large, high-ceilinged room with elegant woodwork.

There are many other points of interest. In the ground floor near the main entrance is a copy of the Liberty Bell. Cast in France in 1950, it is identical to the original bell, except that the famous crack is painted on.

Not far from the first floor main entrance is a grandfather clock. Over 100 years old, it once was the master clock of the Capitol.

Along the main hallways of the first floor are huge murals which depict Michigan history. They were designed to represent Michigan in the 1933 Chicago World's Fair.

The hallway ceiling were done in fresco and have never been retouched. The walls have been continuously retouched over the years, but always in the original colors. The black and white floors throughout the halls of the Capitol are made of Vermont marble, two inches thick, and were installed in 1892.

The doorknobs are made of Michigan cooper, but most are not the original ones. Over the years, most of the original doorknobs were stolen for souvenirs. Each knob has either the State Seal, an apple blossom design or a harvest scene on it.

In the rotunda of the second floor are portraits of Michigan's eight most recent governors. Each governor chooses his own artist and pays for his own portrait, which is hung after he leaves office. Scattered through the Capitol are portraits of other Michigan governors, including the first, Stevens T. Mason.

The fourth floor of the Capitol is used for committee rooms and additional offices. Everything above the third floor has been closed to visits since 1951, as a safety measure.

From the main entrance of the Capitol, at the top of the large front steps, is an impressive view of Lansing's Michigan Avenue, leading east to the Campus of Michigan State University.

Parental Pitfalls

Magic milk and kids

By SHERRY WAINES

Dear Sherry: My daughter at age four suddenly quit drinking her milk at meals. She would drink one or 2 sips and leave the rest, unless we argued about it. One day while fixing dinner I saw a seldom used cream pitcher in the cupboard. I filled it with milk and then took a small clear drinking glass and put a drop of food coloring in the bottom and put both by her plate.

When she came to the table I told her that inside the pitcher was Magic Milk. She filled her glass with white milk and it instantly turned blue (she didn't notice the drop of food coloring). She loved it.

The next night she found yellow magic milk, the next red, green and so on. After a few days of this the excitement wore off so I went back to serving plain white milk, but have never had the problem again.

That was four years ago, but every once in a while I will give her Magic Milk and we will both laugh, because by now she has discovered the secret of Magic Milk. Linda S., Southfield

Dear Parent: After investing three years of time and money into my daughters piano lessons, she has developed a very bad attitude about practicing. Everynight I have to remind her three or four times to practice before she will finally sit down, then when she finishes she usually has a remark like "Boy am I glad that's over". How can I get her to feel more positive about her piano lessons? She used to really enjoy practicing so this new attitude really has me baffled. Donna S., Wayne.

Dear Folks: If you have a solution for Donna please write and let us know. I will print more than one answer since not all children respond the same way to the same situation.

Dear Sherry: I am a Grandmother with eight grandchildren. They all live quite a distance from our home so we enjoy asking them to spend week-ends with us. Usually I try to have a special project or field trip to keep them busy and happy.

One very rainy, dreary week-end I was expecting four of my grandchildren, ages two through eight. It was their grandfather who thought of the idea of supplying them with lots and lots of cardboard boxes of various sizes. We already had on hand a few very large ones so all he had to do was make a couple of trips to the local grocer for more.

We put all the boxes down the basement and let the children's imagination do the rest. They stayed busy all week-end making trains, forts, houses, even a whole village. You wouldn't believe the fun kids can have with a few cardboard boxes. Grandma P., Royal Oak

Dear Sherry: I recently wallpapered one wall in my boy's room. Of course I had some paper left over, not enough to line their dresser drawers with but too much to throw away. About a week later I was able to purchase a rather large piece of corkboard, at our local discount store.

I used the leftover wallpaper to cover the corkboard and then tacked it to the wall matching the prints. The kids now have a great place to hand their art work, and I don't have to worry about them ruining my decorating job by using tape or tacks on their bedroom walls.

This hint could also be used in the kitchen or anyroom where a bulletin board is needed. Mary L. Belleville

Folded apron strings

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

A couple of days after Mother's Day, I was sitting in the living room crocheting another ruffle on my apron when the door flew open and all of my kids came in.

"Mother," they said as they took off their coats and dropped them on the sofa. "We have come to talk to you."

"How wonderful," I said dropping a stitch.

"Mother," said one of the older ones. "We have decided it is time for you to quit mothering us so much and to begin realizing that we are grown men and women with our own lives to live."

"Oh, I know that," I said. "What makes you think I don't know that?"

"Mother, listen to us," she said. "I am not going to call you anymore when I get home after leaving you."

"I only ask you to call when you are driving home alone," I told her. "After all, you might have a flat tire, or skid into a snow bank or something like that..."

"And what could you do?" she asked. "No, mother, from now on when I leave you I am not going to call you to tell you I got safely home. I will not feed your neurosis."

"And mother, will you cut out calling all of my friends when I'm not home when you think I should be?" one of my sons asked.

"I only do that when it's getting on towards morning," I told him. "After all, you never can tell what might have happened. You might have been in a wreck, or someone might have conked you on the head, or..."

"Mother, I am a man, now. I can take care of myself. You don't have to watch out for me..."

"I don't understand," I whimpered putting down my crocheting "I don't think I treat you like babies..."

"O mother, you do," they all chorused.

"Think back to Mother's Day," one of my boys said. "What did you say to me when I sat down at the table?"

"I don't know," I said.

"You said, 'Did you wash your hands?'" "Well, did you?" I asked. "You never remember to wash your hands."

"Mother, I'm twenty-five years old." "The more reason you should remember to wash your hands," I told him.

"Mother, look at us," they said. "We are all grown up."

I looked up from my apron and sure enough those little, tow-headed kids sitting around the room were but a figment of my imagination. Sitting before me were grown men and women; strangers who seemed to know me well enough to take liberties in my living room, but strangers I had never seen before.

Slowly I untied the apron strings. "You're right," I said to them. "No more mothering."

And folding the apron carefully I tucked it into a drawer and closed the door tight.

with the owner's loss of all right and interest in the property. None of the proceeds of that sale are returned to the former owner of the property.

Under the provisions of the general property tax law, taxpayers are given until the March 1 of the year following the year in which taxes were assessed in order to pay their taxes without penalty. After that date a 4 percent collection fee is added to the total sum due. In addition to this collection fee, an interest rate of .75 percent per month is added to the total sum. If the delinquency continues over a period of 3 years, a sale of the property is conducted by the state treasurer on the first Tuesday in May of that year.

As your attorney general, I maintain a strong interest in the affairs of both the government and the people of this state. Therefore, insure the security of your property, and to insure that Michigan continues to be a modern and prosperous state, I must encourage you to make prompt payment of taxes. By doing so you not only provide for the security of your property, but you will also avoid the penalties and charges which may be added to your original tax bill.

Can you survive?

(This is the 10th in a series of 12-articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

The weather is fair with broken clouds, and the temperature is in the low 60s when you and two companions begin an overnight hike. By mid-afternoon, the temperature has plummeted to 50 degrees, and it is beginning to drizzle with an accompanying 10 MPH wind. As you continue to hike to your planned stopping point, one of your companions begins to act irrationally. He is shaking violently and is on the verge of physical collapse. To treat this advanced stage of hypothermia, WOULD YOU . . .

A. Quickly put additional clothing on the victim and make a temporary camp, warming him by a fire.

B. Get the victim in warm, dry clothing and have him drink "hot" liquids.

C. Bundle the victim in additional clothing to halt further heat loss and make preparations for carrying him out.

D. Immediately build a fire and have the victim warm himself. Watch him carefully in order to prevent him from lapsing into a state of unconsciousness.

TO SURVIVE

(B) offers the best solution of the alternatives listed according to survival experts. Once in this stage of hypothermia, the victim can no longer care for himself and must be treated. Additionally, the body core temperature has dropped to such a low point that only the intake of hot liquids (110 degrees), after getting the victim protected, will offer a hopefully successful remedy for the hypothermic condition. Placing the victim in a sleeping bag and crawling in with him to provide additional body heat may be necessary.

None of the remaining alternatives offer definitive care that will arrest the hypothermia victim. (A), putting additional clothing on, without first removing the wet clothes and stabilizing the body core temperature, will not solve the problem at hand.

(D) does not provide internal sources of heat. Once the body core temperature drops to about 90 degrees, independent external sources of heat may only drive the cold deeper into the body's core, worsening the state of hypothermia.

(C) would offer a course of action to take after the victim's body core temperature has been stabilized and is now ready to be moved. (A service of your local Air Force recruiter.)

Belleville vs. Romulus in pre-district playoff

Romulus' head baseball coach Dennis Stoh isn't calling it a jinx — nothing that serious — but in recent years the Eagles just haven't been able to beat neighboring Belleville on the diamond.

And on Saturday the two teams will meet again "at high noon" for a doubleheader, and the first of those games is tagged as the pre-district qualifying game. The survivor, in other words, will advance to the district playoff and play Westland John Glenn next week for the right of representation in the district tournament that Belleville is hosting.

"We haven't beaten Belleville for some time now," Stoh said. "They always seem to get the key hit, or we'd make the crucial error for them to win.

"We looking to see if we can take one from them this year," Stoh added.

Belleville, wiped out of the Suburban 8 Conference title race after a disastrous 2-4 start, will be pointing toward Saturday's pre-district game, according to Tiger coach Dan Fisher.

"We're out of league contention," Fisher said, "and we'd like to salvage the season by surviving the districts. But, I got to say this much for what I have read and heard Romulus will be tough this year."

Romulus shut out Willow Run 2-0 and destroyed Garden City East 11-0 for back-to-back shutouts, then edged Ann Arbor Huron 3-2 for a perfect week last week. The three wins lifted the Eagles to an 8-4 overall record.

Russ Ayers shot the Willow Run Flyers down with a three-hitter, fanning seven and walking two en route to a perfect 5-0 personal record.

Romulus gathered all of the runs it needed in the bottom of the first when Mike Johnson walked, stole second and reached third on Jim Sullivan's groundout. Then hurler Bob Watkins uncorked a wild pitch, allowing Johnson to score.

The Eagles scored an insurance run in the third as Tom Schick singled, moved to second on a base hit by Johnson, then Sullivan hit a line shot for an infield hit which enabled Schick to score.

Ayers gave up a pair of two-base hits and a single to record the win.

East and Romulus played three innings of scoreless ball, before the Eagles broke loose for six runs in the bottom of the fourth and tilted the scoreboard for five more in the sixth to give southpaw Schick the victory.

Schick gave up seven hits, whiffed six and walked two.

Johnson and Ayers split four hits and John Bozelak belted a bases-loaded double in the sixth while Mike Rakotz, Tony Cholette and Steve Venier each checked in with two hits as did sophomore Marty Knight.

Romulus struck for three runs in the top of the third then held on as Huron tagged Ayers for single runs in the fourth and fifth frames. Ayers survived to win the six-hitter as he notched seven strikeouts and walked two.

Loser Ken Jones had his problems in that third when he gave up a leadoff single to Sullivan who advanced to second on Ayers' single. Sullivan scored on an outfield error, Ayers going all the way to third. John Bozelak was safe on an error which scored Ayers and Bozelak stole third and scored on a miscue.

With four games scheduled before Saturday's twin bill with Belleville, Romulus will have ample opportunity to tune up for the pre-district. The Eagles had Ann Arbor Pioneer scheduled for Monday, Livonia Clarenceville on Tuesday, Dearborn Divine Child on Wednesday and will host Oak Park on Thursday.

"This week will either make or break this team," Stoh offered.

McNally to coach at Niles

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The first time I wrote a story about Dick McNally he asked me if it would be possible for me to read it back to him.

It seemed that some sportswriter goofed up on a quote of his while at Michigan Center and he was wary of those who made their living pounding out picas.

I read it back — it was a libelous story and I asked him to sue me and the publishing company and we would split the take. That story, of course, never made these pages. But the real one about him accepting the basketball coaching job at Cherry Hill eventually did.

DICK McNALLY

That was eight years ago.

There have been many, many quotes from McNally on these pages since then, and I have never read a story back to him. And, early yesterday morning, he confirmed what most of us in these parts already knew — McNally has ended his coaching career in the area and has accepted a similar position in Niles, a rustic community in Michigan which is known for its basketball.

Not that Inkster and Cherry Hill aren't. McNally has had some exceptionally talented ball players — such as Bobby Fowler, Tyrone Jordan, Floyd Simmons — all-staters — to name just a few.

Then, why the change?

"It presents a new challenge," the 42-year-old McNally said. "Life is strange like that — I think you need a change once in a while to stimulate it."

McNally is old enough to know, and he still is young enough to dare to make the change.

And what will Niles have to offer? Well, it's a Class A high school that finished with an impressive 18-2 won-lost record and the conference championship, whatever conference they are in.

It also is a growing and thriving community that has a student population of 6,000 in its K-12 program. And McNally hopes to continue a tradition he began some 18 years ago of producing high-caliber cagers. His team at Michigan Center and Cherry Hill have harvested scores of trophies.

Cherry Hill, for example, has won the last three versions of the Tri-River Conference championships, the last three Western Wayne Christmas Holiday Tournaments and two Class B district titles. The Spartans have reached the finals of the regional playoffs the last two years and McNally leaves town with a 106-52 won-lost career record. How many coaches in the area can boast that kind of productivity?

McNally points out that, "My years at Cherry Hill are among the most enjoyable and I will never forget the many friends and memories my family and I will be leaving behind."

And what about the press, Dick?

"It's been wonderful, really. I think the newspapers have done a tremendous job and I want to thank the writers."

Hell — and I thought McNally would say something scandalous so that we could sue him and keep him around for at least another season.

Malecek comes out of retirement

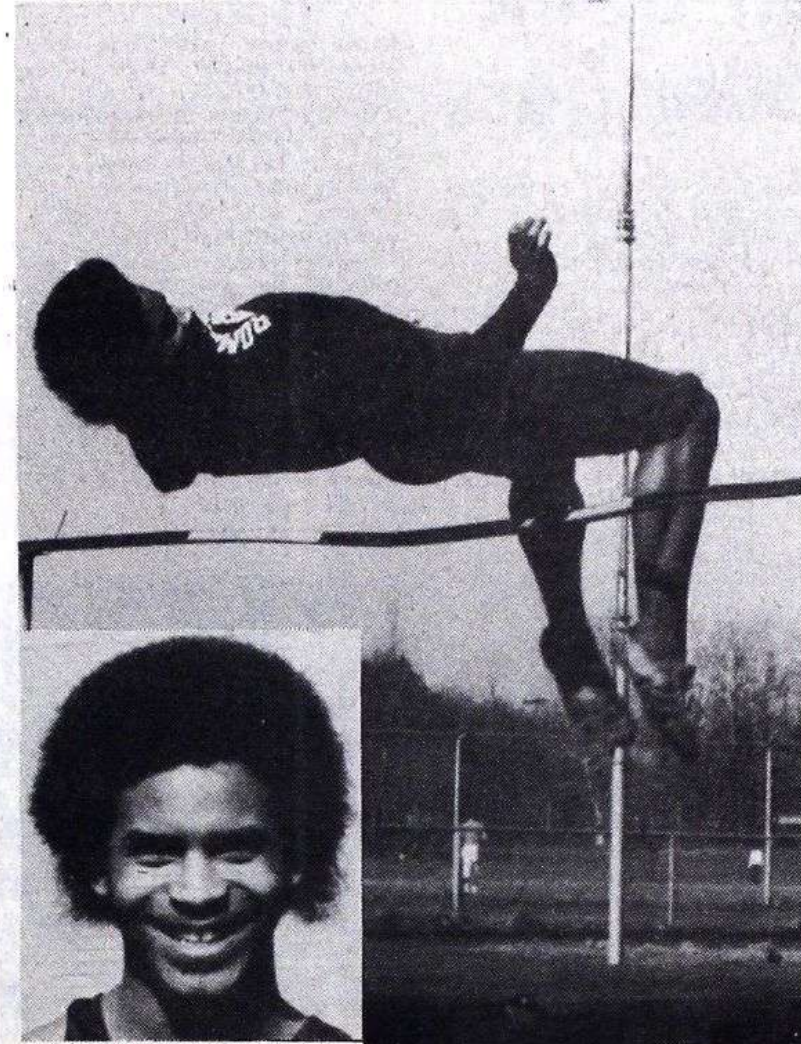

A couple of other notes about area coaches: Kam White, the former athletic director at Inkster High School, will be retiring after the current school year. More about Kam's accomplishments in a future column, but friends will be honoring White on June 3 at a retirement party which will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Van Born Road in Wayne. Telephone Thelema Belcher at 722-6702 for more info.

Gerald Malecek, who was a two-time Big 10 Conference wrestling champ and uses his knowledge to produce championship teams at Belleville High, came out of retirement last week to compete in an AAU Freestyle Wrestling meet at Schoolcraft College.

Gerald won the gold medal in the Open Division at 180.5 pounds. And he waited around to take his gold medal home.

Asked why he wanted the medal so badly, Malecek told meet co-director, John Wood, "How else can I prove to my wife where I've been all day?"

Now I wonder if that's not libelous?

DONALD GRANDISON

Record height

Using the "Fosbury Flop", Romulus senior Donald Grandison reached a record height of 6 feet, 10 inches last week to establish a 'Eagle mark. Grandison's (insert) performance placed him among the top five high jumpers in the state and if he can repeat that height on Saturday at the Adrian regionals he could be well on his way to winning a state title.

Clears 6'10"

Grandison sets high jump record

Like the weather which has its ups and downs, so it appears does Donald Grandison's performances in the high jump.

Last week the temperatures reached into the high 80ies and the 18-year-old Romulus senior took his cue and soared higher than he has ever before.

Grandison cleared 6 feet, 10 inches to become the first Romulus High athlete ever to reach that height and his performance topped the area jumpers and was the third best in the state this year.

"We knew he could do it," said Coach Al Wilkerson, "and we're hoping that he can continue to improve because the regionals and the state championships lie ahead."

Grandison's record-setting high jump effort, plus a 21 feet, 8 1/2 inch leap in the long jump highlighted the Eagles' 74-58 victory over Willow Run.

The victory was the 28th in 32 dual meets for Wilkerson's Eagles who travel to Adrian this Saturday to compete for Class A regional recognition.

Romulus also received a double win from Dave Helmuth who crossed the finish line first in the mile (4:51) and led the half-milers to the wire with a 2:08.7 run.

After hosting Garden City East on Monday, the Eagles travel to Belleville on Thursday to bring the curtains down on their dual meet season.

Not for Wayne it isn't

Who sez home is sweet?

Maybe Wayne Coach Jim Chronowski should play all of his baseball games on the road. One thing for sure, "home wasn't sweet" for the Zebra coach last week.

After sweeping three games the week before on the road, Wayne returned home thanks to sunny weather that dried out the lake behind the school and the Zebras immediately lost all three of their Great Lakes 8 Conference contests.

Those losses left Wayne with a 3-5 conference mark and out of the title run.

Fordson edged the Zebras, 7-6 in eight innings as Wayne wasted 12 hits. Skip Walker had an excellent batting day as he drilled a two-out triple in the fourth and also had a run-scoring single.

Wayne also received three hits from Robert Nutt and Greg Kozub belted a pair of base hits.

League co-leader Taylor Center knocked off Wayne and pitcher Bill Wilson 9-5 as the Zebras again left a handful of runners on base. Wayne had four players with two hits apiece — Dan Perusse, Joe Guepta, Walker and Jeff Bayer.

"We just aren't getting the key hit," Chronowski moaned. "When you get 12 hits as we did against Fordson and 11 against Taylor, you'd think you'd win a couple of games — we didn't!"

Mark Zerna, getting relief help from Ray Lanscki, managed to eke out a 7-6 conference victory over Lincoln Park, the only bright spot in a dismal week for the Zebras.

Wayne had a 7-4 lead going into the seventh when Zerna gave up two straight singles and Chronowski removed him for Lanscki who served up a two-run double to the first man he faced, then proceeded to put the side down in order.

Walker again came up with a double, single and a sacrifice fly and Larry Reid laced a pair of singles to help Wayne's cause.

Taylor Truman, the other co-leader, took care of Wayne 9-4 as Korte was charged with the loss. The Wayne hurler got a double and single in four trips and Ed Turbeville latched on to a couple of singles.

Wayne is at home today, hosting Monroe, and on May 25 will meet Ann Arbor Pioneer in a pre-district playoff game to determine who'll go to the Belleville district.

They're (3-6) out of title race

1-Run losses kill Spartans

One-run losses have removed Cherry Hill from Tri-River Conference title contention.

And Coach Ken Mientkiewicz, whose Spartans took a 3-6 league record into this week's action, has accepted the fact that "we're now spoilers at best."

"We're out of the title race," Mientkiewicz said, "and we're shooting toward the pre-district tournament. There is little chance of us catching Melvindale and Garden City West who share the league lead."

Southgate jolted the Spartans 5-4 as the Sabers erupted for four runs in the fifth inning to hand starter Rick Searcy the loss. Searcy has the dubious honor of being Cherry Hill's "hardluck pitcher of the year." He's 0-4 on the year and his teammates seem to be inflicted by bobbitts "anytime he's on the mound."

The Spartans took a 3-1 lead in the top of the fourth as Searcy singled with one-away, Dave O'Koney followed with a double and Ted Salvadori scored Searcy with a sacrifice fly.

With O'Koney on third, sophomore Mike Johnson then latched on to a Chi Halash fastball and sent it over the leftfielder's head for a two-run homer.

The Spartans looked as if they were going to pull it out in the top of the seventh. Trailing 5-3, Gary Williams singled to left with two-away, then Brian Hewitt tripled but Halash erased the threat when he got Searcy to fly out to center.

On Friday, Cherry Hill edged

Schafer 5-4 as Hewitt held off the Eagles to get credit for the victory. He fanned six and walked four to boost his personal record to 3-1 on the season. Gary Chevellett was the loser in relief of starter Van Husen.

Cherry Hill blew a 4-0 second inning bulge as Schafer put single runs on the board and rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh to tie the game.

In the last inning, with one-away, Hewitt helped win his own game with a double. After the second out, Chevellett intentionally walked Searcy to bring up O'Koney who drove the ball up-the-middle for a run-scoring single.

The Spartans scored two in the first inning with one-away. Salvadori walked, Searcy then singled and O'Koney belted a two-run double. Cherry Hill made it a 4-0 game in the next inning when, with two-away, Bill Walters walked, stole second and scored on Hewitt's triple. Salvadori then singled to right, scoring Hewitt from third.

Hewitt wound up with a double and triple in four appearances at the plate while O'Koney collected three hits in four trips, including a pair of doubles and three RBIs.

Cherry Hill also wasted O'Koney's three hits — a double, triple and two RBIs and Hewitt and Jeff Hammenberg had two hits each in a 10-9 setback at the hands of Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

Double trouble

Though he held Churchill to five hits, Livonia Franklin hurler Jeff Aguzzi had his problems with his city rivals last week. Aguzzi gave up five runs in the third inning while his teammates committed a total of five errors to lose a 6-2 verdict to the Chargers. Churchill got its margin of revenge — they lost to Gerry Cullin's Patriots at the Walt Cosens' Memorial tournament the week before.

Northwest suburban track champs face top challengers

"This week will tell the tale," says Livonia Franklin track coach Bob Holmes. "We have two big meets coming up and if we win both we'll be in excellent shape for the league championship."

Holmes' two rivals are Westland John Glenn (a makeup meet scheduled for Monday), and North Farmington, whom the Patriots will host on Thursday. Both teams are considered capable of beating the defending champs, but North has the better shot — Glenn lacks depth.

Franklin left little doubt last week in Thurston's mind about which team is in command of the Northwest Suburban Conference. The Livonians breezed past their rivals 104-28 and picked up 13 of the 16 first places in doing so.

Spreading his thinclads around, Holmes had a chance to experiment against the Redford Township team. Ken Korzym, though, was the only Franklin athlete to card two first places. He won the discus with an enviable toss of 153'6" and the shot put with a 51'2" heave.

In Tri-River Conference competition

Spartans chalk up 35th straight track victory

Cherry Hill thinclads stretched their phenomenal Tri River Conference victory string to 35 meets with an one-sided 107-25 triumph over Taylor Kennedy last Thursday.

Powered by Tom Teasdale, Pierre Hudson's double victories and sweeping two of the three relays, the Spartans kept their conference record untarnished (5-0) and are favored to retain the league title for the fourth consecutive year.

"We have one major test this week," said Dick Gordon who was promoted to the head coaching job after serving as an assistant to Joe Grasley for six years. "We have to meet Garden City West and West has been sort of a nemesis for us."

Gordon, 35, who prepped at Redford Thurston and was a teammate of Grasley's at Eastern Michigan University, was given the responsibility of perpetuating Grasley's winning track tradition.

"Joe is a tremendous coach and all of the kids admire and worked hard for him," Gordon pointed out. "I hope I can carry on that tradition."

Teasdale picked up firsts in the discus (120'8") and the shot put (42'8"), while Hudson, and All-Area cager, was the top performer in the long jump (19'1 1/4") and the 100-yard dash (10.7).

On Tuesday, Cherry Hill will head for Garden City West to defend its conference title. But, before then, Gordon's runners have a Saturday morning engagement at Riverview where they'll compete for class B regional honors.

Mile relay team gives Wayne key to win over Wyandotte

Wayne Memorial's mile relay team had to come through in order for Coach Floyd Carter's Zebras to beat Wyandotte.

And with Lisa Mondock, Sue Turbeville, Amy McBain and Michelle Smith in their lineup, Wayne breezed past the Bruins to pile up enough points to seal a 65-58 Great Lakes 8 Conference girls' track victory.

The victory gave Wayne a 4-1-1 won-lost-tied record as the week began. They will meet Riverview on Thursday in their final conference dual meet before traveling to the Class A regionals at Bedford.

On Wednesday, with undefeated Monroe as favored to win the title again, the Great Lakes 8 representatives will hold the league championships in Monroe.

Sophomore Laura Weyand accounted for two of the seven Wayne first places over the Bruins. Miss Weyand covered the mile in an impressive 5:25.0, then was clocked in 13:00 for the two mile.

Miss McBain also won the discus throw (102'9") while Jill Preston topped the hurdlers, running the 110-yard lows in 16.3. Miss Smith chalked up a first in the 440-yard dash (62.0), and Pam Matyjasik was the first to cross the finish line for the 220-yard low hurdles. Her winning time was 32.1.

Thinclads are 2-0 in league

Tigers bury Allen Park

Now that the weather has cleared, Belleville track coach Dave Medley is getting a good look at his track team.

And the third-year coach is pleased at what he sees. Medley's tracksters crushed Allen Park 116-15 en route to their second Suburban 8 Conference victory. It was also a good tuneup for Romulus whom they meet Thursday and for Saturday's regionals at Adrian.

"We won't be making up the rain-outs," explained Medley whose team didn't get an opportunity to meet Dearborn or Edsel Ford because of inclement weather earlier in the season. "The league coaches have decided that since our dual meet records don't count toward the league championship anyway, that we wouldn't be making them up."

The championship is decided wholly on the outcome of the league meet.

Belleville will get a look at an impressive Romulus team at 3:30 when Coach Al Wilkerson brings his Eagles to town.

"They have an excellent team this year," Medley pointed out, "and we're going to have our hands full." Belleville dominated Allen Park in 14 of the 16 events. The Tigers swept the first three places in seven events and captured two of the three relays after being disqualified in the 880-yard relay.

Belleville pitching isn't doing the job

Tigers slip to 2-6 in Suburban 8 Conference

It's been a busy — and frustrating week for Belleville baseball coach Dan Fisher.

The Tigers ended last week with a 2-6 won-lost record in the Suburban 8 Conference and things could get worse before they get better. And they can't get better without the pitching.

"It just hasn't been there," Fisher said alluding to his team's anemic pitching. "We hoped that our pitchers would come around as the season progressed, but unfortunately it hasn't been so."

On Saturday, Belleville dropped a 6-5 thriller to out-of-league rival, Livonia Stevenson. Loser Tom Montgomery lasted four innings, gave up four runs and five hits.

The Tigers also wasted Kevin Fry's two-run, seventh inning homer. Dave Stamper contributed a pair of sixth inning RBIs and Rick Elgas belted two hits in three trips.

On Friday, Belleville split a doubleheader with Dearborn, winning the opener 4-1, but losing the nightcap, 5-4. Both games were decided in extra innings.

Mike Vance, a junior righthander, went the distance, struck out six and walked two while giving up seven hits to chalk up the win. The Pioneers had him on the ropes a couple of times but he managed to pitch out of trouble.

In the top of the eighth, the Tigers snapped the 1-1 tie with three runs as Elgas started the inning with a single, then Stamper sacrificed. The runners were safe however when the third baseman threw the ball away. A "suicide squeeze" with John Losen at the plate scored Elgas. Losen eventually walked and stole second.

Dearborn then yanked starter John Wilcox and Jay Hanson faced Larry Cicotte who drilled a two-run single to give the Tigers a three-run wedge.

Belleville took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when Paul Arnett walked, stole second and was chased home on Jim Mercurio's single.

The Pioneers came back and scored one-run in the top of the eighth to win the nightcap. They scored two runs in the second and put one run on the board in the fifth and the sixth. Belleville had a 1-0 lead in the first inning, tied it at 2-all in the second and went ahead in the fourth 3-2.

Arnett's contribution included two hits and an RBI, while Fry was charged with the loss. He worked the first five innings, gave up three runs and three hits before Tim Wallace took over.

Bentley erupted for four runs in the first inning and went on to win an 8-7 decision in the first of two games. Belleville won a 2-0 second game on Stamper's three-hitter.

In that first game Belleville grabbed a 7-6 lead in the top of the fifth as Fry lead off with a single, Mercurio was safe on an error, and Mike Stoelton rapped a RBI single. A wild pitch scored the tying run and Wayne Morris' sacrifice fly drove in the go-ahead run.

Wallace, inserted as a reliever, couldn't hold the Bulldogs who came back in their fifth to score two crucial runs. Vance had three for four, including a double and Fry finished with two hits in four trips to the plate.

Stamper was superb in the nightcap as he scattered three Bentley hits to post his first shutout of the season. The senior righthander notched five strikeouts and walked only one.

Belleville took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on a leadoff single by Vance who raced to second on an error and reached third on a fielder's choice and scored when Lloyd Dubisky sacrificed. The Tigers got an insurance run in the fifth on a walk to Arnett, a stolen base, and a single by Vance who also had a double in this game.

Allen Park's Jim Lada subdued Belleville 3-0 in their first conference meeting of the season. Lada was robbed of a no-hitter on a fluke double to right. He fanned nine and walked two.

Vance took the loss, getting 12 Jaguars on strikeouts and walking one in a four-hitter pitching performance.

Robichaud's Goree remains sidelined with injury

A pulled hamstring muscle could be the key to Dearborn Heights Robichaud's chances to repeat as the Suburban Athletic Conference track & field champ.

The injury is to senior Darryl Goree, a versatile athlete who is "Mr. Everything" on Coach Leit Jones' undefeated team.

"If Goree is fully recovered before the SAC championships and is ready for the regionals, we will have a legitimate shot at those titles," Jones revealed. "True, one man doesn't make a team, but Darryl comes close to it because of his versatility."

The Dearborn Heights' thinclads over-ran their arch-rival, River Rouge, 67-55, without Goree in the line-up, and the victory gave them a 2-0 mark entering the week. They have Ecorse, another power to contend with, before heading for Wyandotte to compete in Saturday's Class B regional championships.

Robichaud's Calvin Townsend continues to look good in the shot put and the discus. The muscular senior had a put of 50 feet, 5½ inches and hurled the discus 137 feet, 8 inches to pick up two of the Bulldogs' eight firsts against Rouge.

To toughen up Mark Woodson, one of the premier sprinters in the state, Jones entered his quick-footed senior in the quarter-mile and Woodson responded with the winning time of 49.3.

Franklin bids for title

in the bottom of that innings with a two-run rally. The Tivonians came back with two of their own runs in the fifth as Doug White walked and, after two were out, reached third on Gary DeYonker's grounder that went through the infielder's legs. With men on first and third, Jim Kuzara delivered a two-run double.

Franklin scored an insurance run in the sixth on McManaway's double and Wilson's single.

Churchill, which lost to Franklin during the recent Walt Cosens' Memorial Tournament, avenged that loss with a 6-2 triumph over the city champs last week. The Chargers exploded for five runs in the third to hand pitcher Jeff Aguzzi his second set back of the campaign.

Sergison collected three singles in as many trips, while DeYonker picked up two for four and McManaway hammered a triple for the losers who have a date with Garden City East today (Thursday) and will host Trenton on Saturday.

Franklin played R.U. Monday to determine who'll take on Bishop Borgess on Friday in the pre-district round.

Oven-fried chicken

If there were a favorite American "ethnic" food, fried chicken would rank high on the list, along with such foods as hot dogs, ice cream and apple pie. But if the truth be known, the chore of tending the skillet and cleaning a grease-splattered range is a deterrent to frequent enjoyment of this popular dish.

Now, with new Oven Fry coating for chicken, this hassle is a thing of the past. The chicken fries in the oven and the result is crispy, crunchy fried chicken that is moist and tender inside. The new product comes in two varieties. Home Style Flour Recipe calls for coating the chicken, spreading 2 tablespoons oil in a baking pan and frying in the oven about 1 hour at 425 degrees, turning only once. Crispy Crumb Recipe calls for dipping the chicken into an egg and water mixture before coating, then spreading 4 tablespoons oil in a baking pan. After coating, the chicken is fried for about 50 minutes at 400 degrees, turned only once.

For this dinner that serves four, one package of Oven Fry with crispy crumb coating will coat 2-1/2 pounds chicken pieces. Once the chicken is in the oven, you have ample time to prepare Spicy Savory Rice with the help of packaged enriched pre-cooked rice. Add your favorite flavor salad dressing mix to Mixed Green Salad with Croutons. Toss and serve and dinner's ready!

Spicy Savory Rice

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped onion
1-1/2 cups water
1/2 teaspoon salt

Spices

1-1/2 cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice
Use about 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, ginger, freshly grated or ground nutmeg, or crushed cardamom seed; or about 1/2 teaspoon allspice or pumpkin pie spice; or about 1/4 teaspoon curry powder; or about 1 teaspoon chili powder.

Melt butter in saucepan; add onion and saute until golden brown. Add water, salt and one of the spices; bring to a boil. Stir in rice. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Makes about 2-3/4 cups or 4 servings.

Mixed Green Salad with Croutons

2 cups bite-size pieces romaine
2 cups bite-size pieces lettuce
1 cup small sprigs watercress
1 peeled tomato, cut into wedges
2 strips crisp bacon, crumbled
1/2 cup Cheese Croutons

two-thirds cup prepared salad dressing, any flavor except bleu cheese, creamy or low calorie.

Combine greens in large salad bowl. Top with tomato wedges; sprinkle with bacon and croutons. Just before serving, pour salad dressing over salad and toss lightly. Makes about 5 cups or 4 or 5 servings.

Cheese Croutons. Combine 1-1/2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine and 1-1/2 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese; add to 1/2 cup 1/2-inch bread cubes and toss lightly. Place on baking sheet; bake at 350 degrees for 5 minutes.

Larabell heir is Christopher David

A proud and happy new father, who witnessed the birth of his first child and held him in his arms just minutes after his entry into the world, is West Willow Elementary School Principal, Dave Larabell.

Dave and his wife, Evelyn, a fifth grade teacher at Elwell School, welcomed a son Friday night at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. And numerology buffs would have a great time with the fact that young Christopher David weighed in at 7 pounds - 7 ounces on May 11. Measuring 21 1/2 inches, the new heir arrived at 9:30 p.m.

Little Chris will be adding a new dimension to the Larabell home at 128 Spencer St., Belleville, these early spring days.

Pidgeon-Kirk marry

Newlyweds head South on honeymoon

Candlelight set the mood for the double ring ceremony which joined Sandi Kirk of New Boston and Frederick E. Pidgeon of Woodhaven in holy matrimony. The young couple exchanged vows at five in the afternoon on April 28 at Messiah Lutheran Church in Detroit.

Some 150 relatives and friends witnessed the rite conducted by the bride's uncle, Ralph C. Morrison of Kalamazoo.

For the occasion the altar was appointed with blue and white tapers set in blue candelabras and white wicker baskets filled with blue and white silk roses. The floral scheme was repeated on the main aisle pews.

Laurie Elliott, soloist, was accompanied at the organ by Joanne Elliott as she sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." Frank Martin was guitarist.

The bride and bridegroom were given in marriage by their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Kirk Sr. of 25055 Carleton West Rd., New Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Pidgeon of 30400 W. Huron River Dr., Flat Rock.

Sandi chose for her wedding day a fleece white gown designed in the empire mode with clear bishop sleeves ending in deep lace cuffs. The same Venice lace frosted the little stand-up collar and pearl-studded scoop neckline.

Her cathedral-length veil of silk illusion fell from a Camelot cap of pearl-encrusted lace. Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of gardenias, blue tea roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Heading the bridal coterie, which included all members of the young couple's families, was Jodie Lynn Dyer of New Boston as maid of honor. The mini maid of honor was 7-year-old Kelly Kromis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kromis of New Boston.

Making up the quintet of bridesmaids were Mrs. Daniel Beacome of Brighton, aunt of the bride; Laurie Elliott and Kim Kromis of New Boston; Teri La Peer of Dearborn, formerly of Belleville, and Becky Reeves of New Boston.

Another of the Howard Kromis' daughters, 4-year-old Kandi Kromis, filled the role of flowergirl.

A dark cotillion blue gown, reminiscent of the ante-bellum era, was worn by the honor attendant. Styled with a hoop skirt and scoop shoulders, the dress featured a lace insert at the bodice. The mini maid was in a junior version of the dress and both tucked matching silk roses in their hair and carried bouquets of silk tea roses in two shades of blue.

Identically made, the bridesmaids' frocks were in a lighter shade of blue and their flowers comprised of pale blue and white silk tea roses.

A white wicker basket filled with the same blooms was held by the flowergirl who also appeared in a pale blue frock.

Carrying out the roles of miniature bride and groom were Kris Kromis, the 6-year-old daughter of the Howard Kromises, and Sean Beacome, five, cousin of the bride and son of the Daniel Beacomes of Brighton.

Best man was Mark Morris of New Boston and the mini best man Kelley Beacome, the bride's 8-year-old cousin from Brighton. The corps of ushers was made up of James, Barry and Dean Pidgeon and Richard Kirk Jr., all brothers of the bridal pair, and Ken Wilding of Redford, uncle of the bride.

The bride's mother, who was escorted to her seat by her 9-year old son, Paul Kirk, was dressed in a soft blue knit gown with a blouson bodice. Shown to her place by 8-year-old Samuel Morrison, the bride's cousin from Kalamazoo, the bridegroom's mother donned a baby blue floral print organza gown. Both were honored with blue silk rose wrist corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception for 350 guests was held at the Southgate Civic Center in Southgate. The newlyweds later departed for a two weeks honeymoon in the South and are now at home on West Road in Woodhaven.

Sandi and Fred are both Huron High School graduates. She attended Cleary College and now works at Collier's Florist of Belleville. He is a Ford Motor Company employee in Woodhaven.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

On driving into Belleville last week on a steamy Thursday morning, it was with a combined feeling of great sadness and disappointment that I viewed the scene along the Belleville Road bridge — a once attractive entry to our (once) fair city.

What formerly greeted motorists — an uncluttered bridge, cool rippling blue waters and a few cruising boats — has now festered into an unsightly mass of humanity with all its accompanying litter. Or should I be more picturesque and say "garbage"?

The "fill" that originally was dumped for future widening of the road has created an ugly mini-causeway which ends up looking like the local dump each weekend.

Offspring of a well-known slovenly animal (disguised as human beings supposedly equipped with brains) seem to find it convenient to leave their trashy calling cards each time they pull up the fishing line for another day.

And with no qualms whatsoever! — After all, they're not the ones who pay for the subsequent clean-up; they pay no littering fines (despite all the warnings) and it's not their muscle that's called into play for the weekly housecleaning.

And it's also not their taxes that are being frittered away.

It's really gratifying to hear from you homemakers and have you interested enough in "potpourri" to share your newly-discovered recipes with other readers.

For the shoe box recipe file this week we have a delicious-sounding casserole which should be ideal for company or a potluck dinner.

Gail Snible of Romulus learned of the potato dish from her dad's wife, Loraine Jorgensen of Sedona, Ariz. and here 'tis.

OVEN FROZEN POTATOES

1 large package frozen hash brown potatoes, thawed
1 large carton sour cream
2 cans cream of celery soup mixed with 1 can water
1/4 cup finely-chopped onion

Mix all ingredients together with potatoes. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake uncovered 1 1/2 hours at 350 degrees. Serves 8 to 10 people.

If you've discovered something new and different and would like to see your recipe in print, just drop a line to Lee Smith, 116 Fourth St., Belleville, 48111.

HOORAY AND HALLELUJAH — At long last, someone has seen fit to sweep the sidewalk that runs on the west side of Fourth Street between Main and Liberty. Having to traverse this route each Thursday enroute to Katherine Spring's home for her news, it has turned into my weekly obstacle course what with the broken bottles, plastic carriers for throw-aways, paper, chunks of visqueen, old shingles, cigarette butts by the gross and just plain dirt to hop, skip and jump over.

To whomever took the broom by the handle, we salute you!

JUST IN CASE YOU'VE WONDERED where the expression "That takes the cake" had its birth. . . .

The ancient Greeks held an intoxicating competition and the winner was the one who could imbibe the most liquor! His edible award was a cake — and cakes have been tasty prizes ever since. At county fairs in 19th century America a contest winner would — literally! — "take the cake" (with the lass who baked it to keep him company).

In the deep South the contest was often a dance in which couples promenaded around a prize cake, giving birth to the famed "cakewalk". Of course, cakes didn't usually "walk", but they were frequently carried — in the saddlebags of early American travelers, who called the flat cornbread "journeycakes" or "johnnycakes". So popular were they, that New England was taste-fully nicknamed "the land of johnnycake"!

Whenever we get together with daughter, Lu, (who was home from Evanston for the weekend), we can expect to learn something interesting and often applicable from her psychology studies.

Parttiming the student bit at Northwestern University, she is heading for her M.A. in counseling psychology.

This time we had a values analysis exercise laid on us and it turned out to be a mighty revealing picture when we each "turned in our papers." Having already done the "experiment" with her husband, Pete, she was anxious to see how people from the same environment compared.

One list, Terminal Values, included such things as freedom, happiness, self-respect, true friendship, a comfortable life, social recognition, inner harmony and 11 other subjects. We were to rate them in the order of importance in our lives (one through 18).

The next roster, Instrumental Values, listed a group of adjectives such as courageous, intellectual, clean, loving, helpful, independent, obedient, responsible and 10 others on which we were to evaluate ourselves. How important did we consider each of these descriptions?

It was a MOST enlightening evening when Lu finally collected our "homework" and read off our answers. Many times two of us hit on the same value; often were at a 2-3-5-8-12 variance and then again we'd find four of us in the "top 10" and the other clear at 17 or 18.

It turned out to be great subject matter for a family discussion. When someone was way off on a tangent they'd accuse BG and me of not telling them they really were "adopted." An interesting way to look at ourselves and our loved ones.

A couple things we definitely were in close accord on were true friendship (close companionship) and freedom (independence, free choice.) We really ran amok on national security (protection from attack) and salvation (saved, eternal life) rating them anywhere from 7-18 and 2-18.

Lus says the values routine is often used by personnel departments to see just how a prospective employee sees himself — and life.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Research is a great career; you get paid for looking whether you find anything or not.

Girl Scouts 'spring clean'

A week earlier than the scheduled Romulus Clean-Sweep Campaign, the Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts of Hale Creek School put forth their efforts.

Junior Scout Troop 215, under the leadership of Linda and Fred Havelka distributed over 600 litter bags containing cleanup information and a packet of marigold seeds. The litter bags and seeds were provided by the City of Romulus. While the Junior Scouts were hoofing it, the Brownie Girl Scouts were busy cleaning up their school. Brownie Troop 291 with leaders Carol Mills and Loretta White spruced up the front of the school and planted flowers around the school flagpole.

Brownie Troop 174 under the leadership of Sharon Seabolt and Linda Stoddard completely swept the back parking lot of the school and raked up the debris.

Brownie Troop 682 with leaders Bonnie Daniska and Donna Rock, raked all the dead grass and trash left through the winter on part of the school grounds.

Brownie Troop 522 led by Sandy Kvicala and Sherry Farmer planted perennials and pulled weeds by the kindergarten rooms.

All the girls, about 60 of them, and their leaders did a marvelous job. They wish to thank the Hale Creek PTA for providing them with punch, Art McPharlin for his help and Mary Brown for the coordination of this very worthwhile activity.

Anti-litter aides

Members of Girl Scout Junior Troop 215 pause after an afternoon of distributing over 600 litter bags and cleanup information for the upcoming Romulus Clean-Sweep Campaign. The bag also contained packets of marigold seeds which residents are being urged to plant. The troop is shown with its leaders, Fred and Linda Havelka.

Arts 'n' crafts exhibit set at Romulus Library

The Friends of the Romulus Public Library cordially invite the public to participate in its Annual Arts and Crafts Exhibit.

The event will be held the week of June 4 at the library during regular library hours. Members of the community are invited to display items inside the library for the duration of the exhibition. Participants are to assume complete responsibility for insuring and displaying products and providing their own easels, if needed.

A registration form may be filled out at the library and interested parties are requested to do so promptly. For further information, call Diane Hazen at the library, 941-0775, between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Please help bring your library alive for everyone and at the same time display civic pride in your community. One of the best ways to help achieve this goal is to promote the Arts and Crafts Exhibit by spreading the word among your friends.

Dancers perform at MH

The Bella Lewitzky Dance Company, known for its powerful and energetic dance technique, places its mark of excellence on the Music Hall Center's 1978-79 Dance Season. Highlighted by costumes from international fashion designer Rudi Gernreich, the company opens its Music Hall engagement Friday.

Bella Lewitzky, artistic director and principal choreographer for the Bella Lewitzky Dance Company, is a noted pioneer of modern dance. Her early training was with Lester Horton and later she co-founded with him the Dance Theater in Los Angeles. Recognition of her work has come in many forms including the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship and the 1978 Dance Magazine Award.

Bella Lewitzky is a rugged individualist with a marvelously inventive mind.

During his 10 years as a student of Lester Horton, Rudi Gernreich began to explore costume design for dance, and to develop the non-restrictive fashion concepts which have earned him four Coty Awards and numerous other international honors. His collaboration with Bella Lewitzky has resulted in costumes that allow comfort, freedom of movement and individuality. His revolutionary designs include unisex dressing and the duotard (two dancers in one costume) which are worn in the Company's show at Music Hall.

The 10 members of the Bella Lewitzky Dance Company are strong, athletic, highly disciplined performers. Their Detroit program demonstrates balletic leaps and turns as well as the more theatrical movements of modern dance.

The Bella Lewitzky

Dance Company presents new and unusual dance concepts to the Detroit audience. Performances run from Friday through May 20, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, with matinees at 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets can be obtained from the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit, or by calling 963-7680 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Group rates are available from Joan Heidt at 963-7622.

Cobo Hall hosts photographic exposition

The largest camera and photographic arts exposition in the country will open Thursday at Cobo Hall for a 4-day run.

The Detroit PhotoExpo International, a non-selling show sponsored by the photographic industry, is geared to entertain and appeal to the family photographer, the serious amateur and the professional, according to Edward Coti, executive director of the International Photo Optical Show Association, Inc. (IPOSA), sponsor of the event.

The 4-day show will provide visitors with a wide variety of photographic features and events. It will include one of the most extensive displays of new photographic equipment ever assembled for the public. More than 100 branded product lines will be available for inspection and will be demonstrated by factory trained representatives who are on hand to answer technical questions.

The Detroit PhotoExpo International also will feature the nation's largest and most diverse photo gallery, a lecture series exploring all facets of photography, a camera and accessory check-up clinic, models and fashion shows to photograph and a wide variety of special events.

The photo gallery will include not only special exhibits from PhotoExpo International's permanent collection but also some of the finest work of a amateur and professional photographers from the Detroit area. The photo gallery includes the work of Ron Galella, the White House photographers Flip Schulke, DeWitt Jones, the newest technique of laser art photography and numerous other professional displays.

The lecture series will include creative presentations by famous photographers, film workshops, and seminars by technical experts. Also featured will be slide shows, multi-image media presentations, and a special "Silver Screen Theatre" devoted exclusively to the art of filmmaking.

Admission to the Detroit PhotoExpo International is $4. Discount coupons for $3.00 admission are available at camera stores throughout the Detroit area. Children under 11 years are admitted free when accompanied by adult.

Country Fair invades village

Greenfield Village's Country Fair of Yesteryear this weekend will re-create the festive 19th century rural fair — an old-time country shindig where fiddlers play, machinery sputters and chores become old-fashioned fun.

Farm animals, many of them prize winners, will be exhibited and paraded, and practitioners of more than a dozen crafts will demonstrate their skills, recalling the days when necessities and even some luxuries were made at home or by a local craftsman.

Crafts will include sheep-shearing, butterchurning, pewter-making, tinsmithing, pottery-making, wool-carding and spinning, bee-keeping, soap-making and much more. There will be Village craftspeople as well as experts brought in especially for this event.

Devoted to the authentic reproduction of Early American music, groups such as "Sweet Corn" and the Pigtown Flingers" will recreate country music of the past with fiddles, dulcimers and other instruments. The Detroit Brass Society will play 19th Century brass band music. Other bands will also perform.

Old English morris dancers will recall the folk traditions of the forebears of American settlers. The Ann Arbor Morris and Sword Dance team, adorned with bells, ribbons and vests, will perform their unusual dance steps while playing mandolins, penny whistles, guitars and recorders.

In addition, the operation of antique gasoline engines will be demonstrated by the Early Engine Club.

There is no additional charge for Country Fair of Yesteryear beyond the regular village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children ages 6 through 12. Children under 6 are admitted free.
